RUSSIA BELATEDLY ANNOUNCES OWN V-E DAY

Final Surrender Articles Are Signed in Berlin

War Officially Comes to an End In Nazi Capital

Forty Million Military and Civilian Casualties Inflicted

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, May 8 (AP)—Germany bowed today to the most overwhelming defeat ever inflicted upon a nation—eleven months and two days after Gen. Eisenhower's armies stormed into France to liberate a Europe in Nazi chains.

The final articles of capitulation were ratified today in shell-shredded Berlin, a ruined capital symbolic of the fall of the Third Reich, Prime Minister Churchill announced in London.

40,000,000 Casualties

The guns of Europe, which through five years, eight months and seven days of unexampled war inflicted possibly 40,000,000 casualties—civilian and military—fall silent officially at one minute after midnight Wednesday (6:01 p. m., Eastern war time today).

Actually the Western front guns were stilled today to prevent further bloodshed as all the Allied world celebrated V-E day.

The last shot on the Western front was fired in Czechoslovakia by the Eightieth Infantry division of Gen. Patton's Third army, the last to remain in action. Patton issued his cease fire order at 8 a. m., today (2 a. m., Eastern War time).

The stubborn Nazis in Czechoslovakia—the last to submit—agreed to the terms of unconditional surrender, and a "cease fire" order was issued in Prague at 1:25 p. m., (Eastern War time).

The final terms were signed at 3:41 a. m., Monday (British double summer time, 8:41 p. m., Sunday, Eastern War time) in a red brick school house in Reims, which for months had been Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

First Reported by AP

The fact of this historic signing had been first reported to the world twenty-four hours before by Edward Kennedy, chief of the Associated Press staff on the western front.

In a ringing order of the day, Eisenhower told his armies that "the crusade on which we embarked in the early summer of 1944 has reached its glorious conclusion.

"It is my especial privilege in the name of all nations represented in this theater of war to commend each of you for valiant performance of duty," he said.

"Though these words are feeble, they come from the bottom of a heart overflowing with pride in your loyal service and admiration for you as warriors. Your accomplishments at sea, in the air, on the ground and in the field of supply have astonished the world."

Message to Prisoners

In a special message to Allied prisoners of war, Eisenhower said they must remain where they were for the present but "your return home will be organized as speedily as feasible."

German forces which once held nearly all Europe in their iron grip thus knuckled to the "unconditional surrender" formula dictated by Churchill and the late President Roosevelt at Casablanca.

Under the stern formula Germany's guns are at rest, her air fleets are yielded, and her warships, U-boats and merchant-men at sea are headed toward Allied ports to give up.

Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, German chief of staff, signed the surrender document for Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, successor as head of the prostrate Reich to the dead or missing Hitler.

The signature of this former Hitler favorite was witnessed for Eisenhower by Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, his chief of staff, Gen. Ivan Susloparov for the Soviet high command and Gen. Francois Sevez for the French.

Final Signing in Berlin

It was this act which Churchill said would be ratified in Berlin by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, assistant commander of the Red armies. British Air Chief Marshal Sir

Truman Serves Notice on Japs, Doom Is Sealed

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—President Truman, in words of stern triumph and dedication, proclaimed defeat of a crushed Germany today and served grim notice on Japan that her doom is sealed.

A nation at war—picking up the cue from its president—went on with matter-of-fact business of making war without breaking stride.

Solemn, but Glorious Hour

"This is a solemn but glorious hour," said the chief executive in a 9 a. m. eastern war time radio address as he joined Prime Minister Churchill in announcement of Germany's defeat.

"I only wish that Franklin D. Roosevelt had lived to witness this day," the president said.

Mr. Truman made no mention of a "V-E-day" celebration and cautioned the nation that its war job is not finished. Later the White House made clear that the omission was intentional—that there is to be no official V-E day of celebration.

Instead the president called upon all Americans to offer "their joyful thanks to God" Sunday—he termed it fitting that the day is Mother's day — and to pray for complete peace.

732,270 Casualties

The pronouncement closed out for Americans the major combat phase of three years, four months and seven days of European and African war which has cost this nation at least 732,270 army casualties alone, including 139,498 dead.

It came while the guns still rumbled deep in Europe where fanatical Nazi holdouts held pockets in Prague and in Moravia and Bohemia. Americans of General George S. Patton, Jr.'s Third army were reported still fighting there.

Throughout the president's words, in a brief speech, an official proclamation and less formal remarks to newsmen in the White House beforehand, he treated the day's history-making event as only half a victory. Repeatedly he put it in precise words:

Only Half a Victory

In the speech—"our victory is but half won."

In the proclamation—"The whole world must be cleansed of the evil from which half the world has been freed."

A statement, issued at the news conference but not read on the

Japan Is Next, Churchill Says In Proclamation

Prime Minister Asks All To Thank God for Deliverance

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, May [illegible] (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, with a solemn reminder that Japan "remains unsubdued" and still must be brought to justice, today formally proclaimed the war with Germany was ended.

Shortly afterwards King George VI in a special V-E day broadcast to the British Empire from Buckingham Palace called upon his people to "give thanks to God for a great deliverance."

War Comes to an End

Churchill in a world broadcast from 10 Downing street said that the unconditional surrender of Germany signed at Reims at 2:41 a. m., Monday would "be ratified and confirmed" at Berlin and that all hostilities would cease at one minute after midnight, British time (6:01 p. m., EWT).

Germans continuing to resist after that hour, the prime minister said, "will of course deprive themselves of the protection of the laws of war and will be attacked from all quarters by the Allied troops."

Beaming broadly and smoking a cigar, the 70-year-old prime minister rode to Commons in an open car through cheering crowds after his historical official announcement of the end of the European war.

There in Commons, where five years ago he rallied Britain to a defiant defense against huge odds, he gave a first hand report of the surrender to Parliament.

As he entered Commons, all the typical stolidness of the House was brushed aside and the members jumped up shouting with joy, shaking hands all around and backslapping one another.

Hard Job Ahead

Churchill himself joined in, but declared firmly "we may allow ourselves a brief period of rejoicing but let us not forget for a moment the toil and efforts that lie ahead."

"Japan with all of her treachery and greed remains unsubdued," he reminded. "The injury she has inflicted on Great Britain, the United States and other countries and her detestable cruelties call for justice and retribution. We must now devote all our strength and resources to the completion of our task both at home and abroad."

Churchill concluded his talk in commons with these words:

"Advance Britannia. Long live the cause of freedom. God save the king."

Then on a motion by the prime minister Commons in a procession behind the speaker marched to neighboring St. Margaret's Church for a service of thanksgiving.

The king in his message to the empire reminded the people that "total victory has not yet been won. x x x In the Far East we have yet to deal with the Japanese, a determined and cruel foe. To this we shall turn with the utmost resolve and with all of our resources."

Yanks Are Forced Back in Stiff Fight at Davao

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, Wednesday, May 9 (AP) — Stiffened Japanese resistance around captured Davao on Mindanao island was reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today. Twenty-fourth division Yanks were forced back by Japanese counterattacks.

This was the first report of any serious fighting since the second invasion of Mindanao April 17.

Penetrate American Lines

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported that a strong force of Japanese penetrated the thin American lines to establish defenses running from the Libby airdrome southwest across the Talomo river, partially isolating one battalion which had taken the village of Mintal.

Japanese artillery was shelling Yank positions near the Libby airfield. The American hold on the field was tenuous.

In Central Mindanao, meantime, the Thirty-first division continued to crowd the retreating Japanese into mountain defenses.

Allies Expand Gains

On little Tarakan island, off Borneo, the Australians and Dutch expanded their gains Monday by capturing an evacuated Japanese headquarters. They were within two miles of the Djoeata oil field, north of the airfield from which Allied medium bombers and fighters already are operating.

MacArthur disclosed that the long-winded Thirty-seventh infantry division, which invaded Luzon at Lingayen gulf and fought into Manila, is fighting around Balete pass on Northern Luzon with the Twenty-fifth and Thirty-second divisions.

Molotov Leaves Conference Today To Return Home

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8 (AP) — Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov will leave San Francisco tomorrow for Moscow, it was learned today, leaving the Big Three deadlock over Poland unbroken.

Molotov is turning the chairmanship of the Soviet delegation at the United Nations Conference over to Ambassador Andrei Gromyko. Several days ago it was disclosed that Molotov planned to leave shortly Gromykyo was the previous Russian choice for the delegation chairmanship, before President Truman suggested to Marshal Stalin that he send his top foreign affairs man here.

Averell, Kerr to Leave

The United States and British ambassadors to Moscow, W. Averell Harriman and Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, Members of the three-power commission with Molotov for reorganization of the Polish provisional government also will leave San Francisco tomorrow.

The Soviet Union has not replied to the American and British request for an explanation of the arrest of sixteen Polish underground leaders, it was learned. Nor is a reply, which was made the American and British condition for resumption of negotiations on Poland, yet in sight.

Gives Cocktail Party

Molotov was host tonight at a mammoth cocktail party in honor of the newly arrived delegations to the United Nations conference of the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics.

Several hundred persons, including the members of most of the forty-eight delegations here, passed through a receiving line, shaking hands. Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa was among those who attended the party.

High diplomatic sources said there was no immediate prospect of resuming negotiations for a new Polish government. These were broken off after Molotov informed Stettinius and Eden of the arrest of sixteen Polish leaders, some of whom had been suggested by the Americans and British as possible members of a broadened Warsaw regime.

"Amerikanskis" in Berlin:

St. Louis Girl Correspondent One Of First To Enter German Capital

(Editors: The following copyrighted story by Virginia Irwin, war correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, of events inside Berlin immediately after Russian occupation was received by the newspaper today along with word that Miss Irwin has been disacredited as a war correspondent, apparently for being "off limits," and is returning home.

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

BERLIN, April 27—(Delayed)—(AP) —(Copyrighted)—I am one of the first three Americans to enter Berlin. After we crossed the Elbe river where the Russians and Americans made contact this afternoon, I arrived at Berlin at dark tonight with Andrew Tully, correspondent for the Boston Traveler, and jeep-driver Sgt. John Wilson of Roxbury, Mass.

Small Arms Clatter

The air is heavy with smoke. Everywhere around us is the clatter of small arms fire. Russian artillery is pouring an almost constant barrage into the heart of the city. But in this Russian command post, where we are guests of Maj. Nikolai Kovaleski, there is a terrific celebration going on. The arrival of three Americans in Berlin was the signal for the Russians to break out their best vodka and toss a terrific banquet in our honor.

We arrived in Berlin a few minutes before 8 p. m. after the strangest journey I have ever undertaken. We "ran off" the map and had to navigate by guess. None of us understood Russian. German road signs had been removed and replaced with their Russian equivalent.

They're Amerikanskis

We got to Berlin on the strength of a crude hand-made American flag flying from our jeep, several hundred handshakers and repeated assurances to fierce Russians who repeatedly stopped us that we were "Amerikanski." And everywhere, as soon as we had convinced the Russians or our identity, we were mobbed. Russian infantry piled out of their horse-drawn wagons and crowded round. Refugees of all nationalities closed in around us and time after time the road had to be cleared almost by force before we could proceed.

Official Celebration

Shortly after noon today at Torgau, east of the Elbe, we dined with Maj. Gen. Emil Reinhart, commander of the Sixty-ninth Ameri-

Westernport Captain Comments from Guam On German Surrender

By VERN HAAGLAND

GUAM, May 8 (AP) — All American naval and artillery weapons within range of Japanese troops on Southern Okinawa fired a single charge simultaneously at noon today in celebration of the end of the European war.

The news was broadcast to all patients at field hospitals.

When the report was broadcast, Capt. Crawford J. Campbell, army surgeon of Short Hills, N. J., was operating on a marine just rushed in from the front with serious abdominal and leg wounds.

He raised his head momentarily, then went on to finish treating the marine's wounds. Still wordless, he turned to a badly hurt young soldier.

Capt. Thelma Cole, of Westernport, Md., said, "the first thing I noticed was one fellow crying. Another fellow started to pray aloud.

"When the first tension wore off others started talking of furloughs and rotation and the friends from Europe they would meet when they got home."

Latin American Nations Seeking Own Peace Plan

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8 (AP)—The United Nations Conference, pausing only for a moment's meditation on victory in Europe, kept a wary eye today on Latin American maneuvering for a peace-keeping system in the Western Hemisphere able to act on its own.

There was rejoicing over the end of the war in Europe, but it was restrained. There were V-E day speeches and statements. There was talk of a Truman-Churchill-Stalin meeting to tackle some of the immediate problems arising from defeat of the Nazis.

Small Nations Organizing

But as committees went through routine sessions, trying to erect some of the framework of a new world charter to assure lasting peace, delegates of Latin American nations were organizing on the sidelines behind a movement to gain recognition in a world organization for the distinct inter-American security system embodied in the act of Chapultepec at Mexico City.

Oppose Compromise

Representatives of sixteen of them met last night and more meetings were underway today. Delegates

49 Lives Lost In Ship Blast In New England

CAPE ELIZABETH, Me., May 8 (AP)—Forty-nine died in the frigid waters of the Atlantic ocean only three miles offshore after a terrific explosion split their navy Eagle boat amidships in New England's worst naval disaster of the war.

Only thirteen of the crew of the patrol ship PE-56 survived the mysterious blast that came April 23rd during a noon lull in target practice maneuvers.

Many Below Decks

Many of the men were below decks when the explosion came and few had time to grab lifejackets as, stunned and bewildered, they struggled topside through debris-cluttered passageways.

Many of those who got over the side before the 430-ton vessel sank perished in the frigid water when their numbed hands no longer could retain their hold on boxes, oil drums and shoring that floated in the wreckage.

Those who survived suffered from internal injuries, cuts, shock and immersion and they had many conflicting theories of what caused the blast that sent the vessel to the bottom in but a few minutes.

Disagree about Submarine

Some believed they saw a submarine lurking nearby and one was just as positive that it was not a torpedo that struck the ship.

Some thought the explosion sounded like that created by a depth charge or a mine.

The boilers of the vessel had been overhauled ten days previously and were described as in good condition.

Within seventeen minutes service craft had picked up the survivors, but of the forty-nine men who were lost only two bodies were recovered. The other forty-seven were listed on navy records as "missing" but are presumed to be dead.

A rescue destroyer dropped depth charges where survivors reported seeing an underseaboat, but it was the Eagle craft's grave that was marked by two huge oil slicks and a large debris-filled area.

The PE-56 had been engaged in target maneuvers with aircraft from the Brunswick naval air station off the entrance to Portland harbor.

Red Celebration Set for Today In Radio Order

Official Announcement Not Made by Premier Stalin Personally

LONDON, Wednesday, May 9—(AP)—The Moscow radio, announcing the German capitulation to the Russian people for the first time, said today that unconditional surrender articles had been signed by the Nazi high command at Berlin.

The announcement, made in behalf of Commander in Chief Stalin but not by the premier marshal personally, said the surrender was signed yesterday by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel for the German high command, in the presence of Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder, American General Carl Spaatz, French General De Lattre Tassigny and Russian Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov.

Holiday Proclaimed

The Moscow radio said that "in honor of the great patriotic war of the Soviet people against the German Fascist invaders and the historic Red army victory that has been gained and that has been ended by the complete defeat of the German army which declared unconditional capitulation May 9 will be a festival of victory."

The proclamation setting aside today as a holiday was signed by Chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet Mikhail Kalinin and Presidium Secretary Alexander F. Gorkin.

Ends War in East

Announcement of the capitulation ended the Russian warfare on the east front where the conflict with German forces in Czechoslovakia, in Austria and in the resistance pockets of Courland, Latvia and the Vistula estuary continued up to the last minute.

Moscow had ignored the V-E day observed by Britain, America and the other United Nations after Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman made their formal announcements of the German surrender.

Stalin, in the last hours of victory, issued three orders of the day to Red army commanders announcing triumphs in Southern Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria.

Play National Anthems

Following announcement of the text of the surrender agreement and proclamation of today as a national holiday, the Moscow radio broadcast the Soviet, British, American and French national anthems.

All Soviet state institutions have been requested by the Council of the Peoples Commissars to raise the Soviet State flag on their buildings today.

The German Flensburg radio, broadcasting instructions of the German high command, told all German forces in the field shortly before midnight that they must cease hostilities at midnight May 8 "on all fronts against all former enemies of Germany."

Provisions of Surrender

The act of surrender signed at Berlin, Moscow said, provided that the German high command must immediately order cessation of military operations at 11:01 p. m. Central European time (6:01 p. m., EWT) May 8 and order troops to remain stationary, fully disarming and handing over all arms and military equipment to Allied commanders.

The Germans agreed not to destroy any ships, planes or military equipment of any kind.

The Germans also agreed immediately to put forward responsible commanders to ensure fulfillment of all future orders given by the supreme high command of the Red army and the high command of the Allied expeditionary forces.

Moscow said the surrender was made simultaneously to the high command of the Allied expeditionary forces and the supreme high command of the Red army.

Allies See Mystery in Stalin's Delay in Victory Proclamation

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

One mystifying fact about the end of the war in Europe is that Moscow ignored the Anglo-American proclamations of victory and waited until today (Wednesday) to announce German capitulation.

It had been widely expected that Marshal Stalin would issue a V-E pronouncement simultaneously with the radio speeches yesterday by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill. The Anglo-American announcements were delayed many hours, presumably to permit Stalin to join Truman and Churchill in the victory symposium.

Why did he not avail himself of the opportunity will puzzle the Allied world until it is explained. Whether he did not consider the German surrender at Reims official until it was confirmed and ratified at the later ceremony at Berlin was not immediately clear.

Certainly there was no lack of full credit by Allied spokesman, civil and military, to Russian armies for their tremendous share in the triumph.

Any attempt to estimate the time it may take to defeat Japan must reckon wih Russia. If Allied leadership, including Eisenhower, has any factual knowledge of Russian purposes in that regard, there is no authentic word of it. Nor is there detectable in what is yet known of Anglo-American preparations to move military power against Japan any indication that Russian cooperation is in fact expected on that front.

On the contrary, with the battle of Okinawa approaching its conclusion, it seems clear that the prime staging base for carrying the war into Japan itself will be ready in ample time to accommodate forces transferred from Europe.

Boisterous V-E Day Celebration In Halifax Followed by Looting

HALIFAX, N. S., May 8 (AP) — Looting mobs, growing out of Halifax's boisterous V-E day celebration, raged through the business districts today, smashing store windows, battling police and causing loss unofficially estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Civil authorities clamped an 8 p. m. curfew on this Canadian port city and service police were called in to clear the streets.

The Halifax business district looked as though it had been hit by a storm. Two fires, apparently of incendiary origin, were reported. Power lines were cut at one point and a large section of the city was without lights for more than an hour.

The city began a peaceful victory celebration last night with servicemen and civilians joining in revelry. But as it continued through the night the celebration increased in violence. Window smashing started and toward midnight a mob attacked a street car, bashed its windows and, failing to overturn it, set it on fire. When a patrol wagon reached the scene, it was overturned and fired.

Liquor stores were broken into and their contents distributed among the mob. At dawn the riot began to quiet, then was renewed at midafternoon.

Thanksgiving Services Will Be Held In All Churches in Maryland Sunday

[By The Associated Press]

All Maryland, repared today Wednesday to observe Sunday as a day of thanksgiving for complete victory in Europe and as a day of rededication to the task of defeating the one remaining enemy, Japan.

All churches will devote part of their Sunday services to special prayers and many communities will hold special observances.

Governor O'Conor announced last night in a radio address that the state's official thanksgiving ceremonies would be held Sunday night in Baltimore's Fifth Regiment armory.

The governor said that "representatives of the various faiths, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, will join in voicing our people's gratitude for the blessing of victory and security bestowed upon us.

"Along with the dominant note of thanksgiving, there will be sounded likewise a call for rededication of our wills and intensification of our efforts towards speedy and complete defeat of Japan. Victory in Europe must not tempt us to forget the tasks still ahead."

The governor commented that "the designation by President Truman of Sunday, May 13, as a day of thanksgiving will appeal to everyone. It is fortuitous that this day of national thanksgiving coincides with Mother's day x x x."

"UNBLOCK" YOUR DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And where it gets blocked when it fails to digest properly.

Thus, what you want for real relief is not soda or an alkalizer—you want something to "unblock" your intestinal tract. Something to clean it out thoroughly and help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and thoroughly "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits your food to move along normally. Nature's own digestive juices can then reach it—and you get genuine relief that makes you feel really good again.

British See Far Longer Occupation Of Germany Than American Public

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 8.—In sharp contrast to the American public, the British people are counting on a much longer period of German occupation by Allied military forces after the war.

The typical American, surveys have shown, has been making the comfortable assumption that military occupation of Germany will be a matter of only about two years after the war. Some foresee a shorter period, others a longer, but the average estimate is about two years.

The average Britisher, on the other hand, makes an estimate of about ten years when he is asked how long he thinks occupation will have to go on in Germany.

The estimate of the average man in Britain implies a stern attitude toward Germany, perhaps also reflects a desire to do a thorough job of remodeling Germany over a long period of time.

The question used in the British study, made by the British Institute of Public Opinion, American Institute affiliate, was:

"About how long do you think the occupation (of Germany) will have to last?"

The replies:

Up to 5 years	18%
" " 10 years	27
" " 15 years	10
" " 20 years	16
" " 25 years	8
More than 25 years	10

Eleven per cent had no opinion. The median average of the above replies is about ten years.

Results from another related survey show, however, that the typical Britisher would not have any one man serve more than two years in the Army of Occupation, no matter how long the occupation may be necessary.

Even so, if men are to be sent to Germany for any great length of time, the family life of married men will be seriously disrupted.

This brings up another problem on which the British Institute asked the opinion of the people:

"Should the wives of married men in the Army of Occupation be allowed to go to Germany with their husbands?"

Approval of this idea comes from an overwhelming majority. This is shown in the following table of replies:

Yes	74%
No	19
Undecided	7

A Nation's Thanks for VICTORY!

V-E-DAY has come at last! And the world rejoices thankfully, hardly able to believe that the terrific battle of Europe is over, that the boys will soon be marching home again! The debt we owe them cannot be put in words, and "thanks" seems indeed a weak expression of the overpowering gratitude we feel toward the millions of fighting men and women who went out to conquer the Nazi giant.

From everywhere they went forth, from many nations, from stores and offices, from farms and factories, from schools and colleges, from rich homes and poor . . . men of peace who laid aside their private lives to take up arms against aggression. And now it's over. Another menacing foe has been crushed, and democracy has been preserved. It has been preserved by the magnificent courage of these men and women, geared together to form the most colossal fighting machine the world has known. To the many who won't come back we can say nothing to match their sacrifice. We can only accept the free life they won for us, cherish and guard its ideals, knowing at what a price it is ours.

In our great rejoicing let's not forget that we still have another ferocious enemy to annihilate - - - one that is guilty of the most heinous crimes committed against mankind. Let's not relax our home front efforts until total and complete victory is ours . . . Keep on the job, keep on buying War Bonds.

Hope Dawns Anew

IN THE HEART OF AMERICA

With the victory in Europe, millions of hearts are lighter in the hope of an earlier reunion with loved ones. Husbands, sons, fathers, brothers and sweethearts will come marching home. Broken homes will be put together again, dads will become acquainted with bright-eyed children, some they've never seen before. It will be a great day! . . . But we still have a tremendous job ahead, that of complete victory over Japan. Let's not relax, let's keep on buying War Bonds 'til peace encircles the whole world.

NOW---let's GET ON with the job!

This is no time for ticker-tape throwing ...for carousing...for dancing on streets

This is a time for thanking God with humble, contrite hearts for this, our Victory...this is a time for pledging our minds, our hearts, our re-newed energy, our wealth to a continuance of the fight against the common enemy. This is a time for resolving that, with God's help, we will get on with the job until Japan, too, is conquered. Then will be time enough for rejoicing, for then only may we enjoy and be worthy of the peace. May we never forget how terrible a price is being paid for that peace by our invincible armies, fighting so magnificently over the world—and may we hold that peace for them.

...So now—let's get on with the job!

Truman's Course Quite Appropriate

AMERICANS can heartily approve the good sense of President Truman in carefully avoiding any use of the popular term "V-E day" in formally announcing the victory in Europe and, instead of promulgating a day or days for a jubilant celebration, proclaiming Sunday, May 13, as a day for the people of this country to unite in offering thanks to the Supreme Being for the victory won and to pray for His continued support until the victory shall be made complete and final.

There is, as this newspaper has heretofore stated, no good reason for unrestrained celebration of the defeat of the Nazi beast at this time since it represents only half of a gigantic task to be accomplished. Humiliation and thanksgiving are more appropriate. This is because, as the president has declared, much remains to be done and "the whole world must be cleansed of the evil from which already half the world has been freed." Every American must take to heart his admonition that all must now buckle down to achieve the final victory—and to "work, work and work," to that end.

Great Britain is to have a two-day celebration, but its courageous people are surely entitled to an outburst of joy considering the great sufferings and hardships they have endured through incessant bombings, from which the United States has so happily been spared. At this writing no word of a proclamation by Marshal Stalin had come through, but the Russian peoples, considering the ruin and devastation they suffered at the hands of the cruel and ruthless Nazis, are entitled to a demonstration also.

At any rate, the position taken by President Truman with regard to the United States of America is exceedingly appropriate and sensible. It accords thoroughly with the American spirit of grim determination to carry on the great task to which it is unswervedly committed and with the ideals it has set for ridding the world of the evil of war and making for an enduring peace.

Doubt Remains as To Hitler's Fate

AS this newspaper has observed, the world will remain skeptical of the death of Hitler until proof as positive as that in the demise of Mussolini is produced. There is no question that the object strung head down from the rafters of a Milan gas station was the mortal remains of the "doojay." Even though there is no valid reason for doubt that the balcony strutter came to a fitting end, there will be rumors in the future to the effect that perhaps he isn't dead after all.

But in the case of Hitler there will be grave doubt as to his death until evidence as conclusive as that supplied in the case of Mussolini comes to light. What makes reports of his death appear less plausible is the fact that all of his close henchmen disappeared as mysteriously as Hitler, and all are supposed to be dead, too. Goering, Goebbels, Himmler—where are their bodies if they have gone to their eternal reward?

The whole gang may lie under the rubble that is Berlin. But if they have fled to a hideout, as was freely predicted they would do, they would have disappeared simultaneously. Could they be in Eire, Spain, or on their way to Argentina or Japan in a submarine? If the arch criminals are dead, it is possible that their bodies never will be discovered. But in that case rumors that they are still alive will crop up constantly, always without confirmation of course.

If they are still alive, odds favor the possibility that they will eventually be caught. It will be hard for birds so well known for their deeds to find a safe haven for more than a few months.

Things That Must Be Done about Germany

SURRENDER of the Nazi war machine accentuates the responsibilities developing upon the Allies thereby and the question of what is to be done with the German people again is brought to the front. Not only must the Allies feed and clothe their millions of captives, but they must carry on some sort of temporary government as a safeguard against complete anarchy. Then devastated Central Europe must be reconstructed, and that will require much more time after this war than after World War 1, not only because of the greater destruction wrought but also because of the necessity for a rearrangement of Europe's economy.

Central Europe, of course, must become productive and self-sustaining, but the contention formerly held that its place it once held in industry is essential for the welfare of the continent is not so strongly entertained now. Certainly the Germans must not be allowed a chance of rearming and industries giving that chance must be curtailed, but here the question arises as to what industry cannot be made to contribute to warfare. While occupying only about four per cent of the total land area of the globe, Europe made its living literally as a world workshop. Germany was the largest trading nation before the war, accounting for nearly nine per cent of the total of international trade. It made great inroads by price cuttings into the economy of this and other countries. The puzzling task of the Allied governments will be to see to it that precious little of this will accrue to it in the future.

There is the question of what punishment should be visited upon the German people as a whole for the atrocities and crimes their acquiesance and connivance permitted. They should be made to pay, if only as a harsh lesson, for the immense losses their perverted course caused. Perhaps, however, there should be a distinction here between punishment and penalty. The German masses were, it is to be admitted, helpless under the subjugation the surrender of their liberties brought. The Allies must perforce keep in mind one of the warnings uttered by former President Hoover and Hugh Gibson in their scholarly outline of the problems of a lasting peace that the forces of fear, hate and revenge play a large part in the causes of war. They must weigh carefully the other causes of war, including ideologies, economic pressures, nationalism, militarism and imperialism, but these rest largely with the world security organization.

Whatever penalty may be imposed upon the misguided German people as a whole, the whole civilized world is in agreement upon one discrimination that can and should be made. As set down by Hoover and Gibson, "the leaders of the nations who brought this situation upon the world must be made to realize the enormity of their acts. There can be no moral distinction and there should be no legal distinction between such men and common criminals conspiring to murder. Too long has it been assumed that there is something sacred about the heads of state who project or provoke war and wholesale murder."

There, too, is another great task before the Allies; but the indications given by the work of the War Crimes Commission and the world security conference are that this job, however unpleasant, will be accomplished as surely as the surrender of the Nazi war machine was enforced.

Progress in Borneo An Important Aid

INVASION of Borneo by American forces, aided by Australians and British, adds gratifyingly to the progress that is being made in providing bases and acquiring resources for the final assault on Japan.

The Philippines are virtually reoccupied. Okinawa, a sizable island in the Japanese archipelago itself, is all but taken. It would not surprise many observers to see Formosa conquered before Allied strength has been recruited to its peak. Now Borneo is doomed. Regardless of the resistance offered by Japs on the island, it will be impossible for them to stave off the inevitable.

When Borneo falls, Java, Sumatra and countless smaller islands of the East Indies will be isolated. Their collapse will not be long delayed.

Distance, always the great handicap of the Pacific conflict, will then be greatly alleviated for the Allies. The British already have taken an oil field in Burma. The extensive petroleum deposits of Borneo, which have been invaluable to Japan, will soon result in reduction of the volume of oil it is necessary to ship to the Pacific war area from the United States. Borneo also will yield the Allies rubber and many other vital products.

Japan still will hold a large land mass in Eastern China, Indo-China, Korea and Manchuria but will have lost the great resources which the Indies supply. The Pacific enemy is rapidly approaching the position Germany found itself in when it lost the Ukraine, France, the Danube valley and other regions which were vital because of their resources.

The galling thought must have occurred to Italians that if they had strung Mussolini up twenty years sooner, they would have more to eat today.

Hitler vowed to leave behind ruins, rats, epidemics and death, and this was one boast he fulfilled—but not in the way he expected.

The early bird may not always get the worm but the early season fisherman is almost sure to catch a cold.

It had to happen sooner or later. A soldier with General Patton's army found a fox in his fox hole.

After a June-like March and a November-like April let's hope May is content to be, well, just May.

Germans will be explaining for a thousand years that where the ruins are is where Germany was.

"I WILL FEAR NO EVIL"

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

When the psalmist uttered these words—"I will fear no evil"—he undoubtedly had lifted his heart and spirit high.

Fear was planted within us merely as a protective measure—not as a destructive agency. Fear should only make us alert. The control of fear is up to the mind. If it can say, with sincerity and conviction, I will not feat, I cannot fear, or why should I fear? then fear comes under personal control.

Fear can dominate a life and eat at its very vitals. Nothing is more destructive. The evils in its train are endless. It can wreck the body, and deaden the mind to all usefulness. How full of beauty, how free from all anxiety, is that line that David uttered in the Twenty-third Psalm. "I will fear no evil." For any of us to say that, and mean it, is to express personal victory over our very nature.

In the first place, fear is a poison. It affects every part of the human organism. And what a clean, happy, outlook on life anyone may have when he banishes all fear from his mind and heart! And it can be done. Your Creator never meant that you should harbor fear at any time.

Take the creatures of the wild. Largely, their fear has been inspired by man in his effort to kill them. It is amazing how quickly a wild animal can be made to trust a human being once it has learned that it need not fear. In a week or so I have tamed the wild red squirrel to take peanuts from my fingers and sit on my knee and eat them. There are black squirrels, where I am now for a few weeks, and they come readily at my call for the peanuts that are always in my pockets.

It is when people lose faith and courage that they begin to fear. The religion that Jesus introduced into the world was not a negative but a positive one. He calmed the waters for the fishermen who were seized with fear. He healed the sick, and comforted the sorrowful. Two of the most inspiring words He ever uttered were these: "Fear not."

By banishing all fear from your mind and heart, you gain the confidence essential to a triumphant life. You thus help to create confidence in others. And through prayer and thanksgiving, fear can take a permanent holiday!

Molotov Evasive from Start on Question Of Missing Poles, Drew Pearson Reveals

By DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO — Here's what happened behind the scenes when Molotov dropped his bombshell regarding the mysterious disappearance of sixteen Polish leaders in Russia.

Ever since mid-April both the British and American embassies in Moscow had been trying to learn what had happened to the Polish mission. When Molotov arrived here two weeks ago, Secretary of State Stettinius and Anthony Eden immediately asked him what happened to the Poles. Molotov said he didn't know. The Anglo-Americans kept up the pressure and finally at an informal dinner of the big four, Stettinius spoke up and asked Molotov if he'd found out yet about the missing Poles.

"Oh yes," replied Molotov, "I forgot to tell you. They were arrested by the Red army."

"What for?" asked Eden.

"We call it diversionist efforts against the Red army," replied the Soviet foreign minister.

"But what are the real charges?" asked Stettinius.

"Oh, those—they'll come out at the trials," answered Molotov calmly, continuing to eat.

"You mean you're going to try them all?" asked Stettinius, perturbed.

"No," answered Molotov, "only the guilty ones."

At this point, Stettinius told the Russian official he planned to make a formal statement about the matter to the press. Molotov said he had no objection, and the announcement was made by both Stettinius and Eden the next day.

Inside Polish Story

The full story of the mysterious sixteen Poles, as pieced together from diplomatic sources, follows:

Actually, these sixteen Poles had never been outside Poland since the war started in 1939. Some people have gained the impression that they were emissaries sent from the Polish government in London. However, they had been working underground in Poland, and in March sent word to the Russian commander that they would like to discuss the question of co-operation between the Lublin and London Polish governments.

The Russian commander suggested that they talk to the Lublin government, but they replied that they only wanted to talk to Molotov or Stalin. They asked for a guarantee of safe conduct which, according to the London Poles, was given.

They were then put in a truck and sent to Moscow. After arriving in Moscow they were treated very well at first, and United States Ambassador Averell Harriman sent a cable to the State department that Stalin planned to place eight of these Polish leaders in the revamped Lublin government in conformity with the pledge he made to Roosevelt and Churchill at Yalta.

Then something happened — nobody knows exactly what. Suddenly the Polish leaders disappeared. Suddenly also, Stalin changed his mind.

Ambassador Harriman has been unable to give Secretary Stettinius any explanation for what happened, except to say that sometimes after Stalin has made a pledge, he gets back to Moscow and the Politburo argues him out of it. Harriman has told friends that he has the highest regard for Stalin and considers him one of the few men who can be trusted. However, the ambassador pulls no punches in expressing his opinions about some other Russians.

Unofficial Russian explanation is that the leader of the sixteen Poles is General Okulicki who, during the Russian advance across Poland to Germany, operated radio stations in the rear of the Red army and sabotaged the Russian advance. From this diplomats deduce that the Politburo, confronting Stalin with this evidence, persuaded him to change his mind and not place any of the sixteen in the Lublin government.

In meetings of the American delegation, Secretary Stettinius leans heavily for advice on Leo Pasvolsky, former secretary of the pre-Soviet Russian embassy and former editor of White Russian journals. Naturally this ires Russians.

Brazilians Irked

Michigan's vivacious Senator Arthur Vandenberg slipped word out to San Francisco newsmen (with some pride) that President Truman called him frequently from Washington. Incidentally, Stettinius calls Truman up at least once a day, hardly makes a move without consulting him—though apparently he didn't consult him regarding the immediate admission of Argentina, instead of waiting four days as requested by the Russians . . . The Brazilians don't like the new leadership assumed at San Francisco by Chile and Mexico. What the Brazilians need is the dynamic leadership of their former foreign minister, Oswaldo Aranha, the most towering figure in Latin America . . . After the Greek foreign minister voted with Russia to delay seating Argentina for at least four days, Greek Ambassador Diamantopoulos scuttled around to the American delegation to explain that the vote against Argentina was not his doing . . . Though it was blamed on Latin-American nations, actually, Assistant Secretary Nelson Rockefeller had begun long ago laying the groundwork for admitting Argentina to the United Nations. The British also were strong for bringing in their old friends from the River Platte . . . Last week United States delegates virtually requested Mexico to raise the Argentine question and push for its admission.

Watching Washington

Sir Arthur Salter, British shipping expert, will head the British reparations delegation to Moscow late this month. Sir Arthur is considered a "soft peace" man, close to the clique which wants to rebuild Germany as a barrier against Russi. . . . President Truman has asked Anna Rosenberg, an old friend of Roosevelt's, to go to Europe on a mission . . . Truman is also trying to persuade Judge Sam Rosenman and David Niles, two members of FDR's staff, to remain with him permanently . . . The House Judiciary committee is all set to bring impeachment proceedings against at least one of the two federal judges who are being investigated in Pennsylvania.

The House Banking and Currency committee is reporting favorably on the important Bretton Woods agreement this week . . . The long-controversial Canol project, the pipeline to carry oil from Canada to Alaska has quietly been declared "surplus" and will be sold—presumably to Canada. This was the pipeline which then "Senator" Truman so strongly condemned, and which General Brehon Somervell defended. Truman's chief peeve with Somervell was not that a mistake had been made, because mistakes are human, but that Somervell never would admit his mistake.

mutiny at home. It was Hitler alone who by attacking both west and east broke every military principle and involved his country in a two-front war.

Such is the curse of the leader principle, the doctrine of the indispensable man. The pyramid of government inverted on its apex. Eighty million Germans in one car driven by one man instead of 135,000,000 Americans in 25,000,000 cars driven by 25,000,000 men. There are always some accidents, but the many accidents of democracy are better than the one crash of autocracy.

Mysterious Attitude

How comes it that millions of men and women surrender their fate to one man? We can understand the love of power, the thirst for glory of the individual. But how explain his followers? Is there a secret mass mesmerism at work in the world of which we know little and of which we should know more? In Bible times men spoke of unclean spirits and devils working miracles. Whatever it is, it becomes more dangerous as the demagogue, the Voice, harnesses the radio and the silver screen to his dark designs and thereby magnifies his puny power.

Eternal vigilance, the price of safety. Not only vigilance, but a shrewd, tough mindedness, by which to measure promises and bombast. Where is that good yardstick today? Science is conquering the germs that attack flesh: we are losing the battle against the fevers of thought.

Is it possible that Hitler could have sold his shoddy boasts to the men who founded this Republic?

Terrible Legacy

This dark demonic spirit, this archangel of the underworld, surpassed for a brief period the reach of Bonaparte, and like that power-drunk man, dulled his sword on the frozen tundras of Russia. His record is written in rivers of blood: his legacy to mankind: unspeakable crimes, a ruined continent, decades of despair.

"I had rather," said Ingersoll at Bonaparte's tomb, "have lived in a hut with a vine growing over the door, with the grapes growing purple in the kisses of the autumn sun—with my loving wife by my side, knitting as the day died out of the sky—I would rather have been that poor peasant and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust, than to have been that imperial impersonation of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great."

I turn to Churchill, the one man in England, who dared to be unpopular by warning men to arm against Hitler. "What manner of man is this grim figure who has performed these superb toils and loosed these frightful evils? . . . . Few have been unaffected by his subtle personal magnetism."

Mass hypnotism. The evil eye. The The madness of crowds. This is a subject for the delegates at San Francisco.

Founding Fathers Wise

How wise our fathers were in holding that power, like dynamite, is safe only when in small packages. "Unlimited power exists nowhere in a Republic." What shall we say of those in our midst who advocate measures which pave the way for new Napoleons. In the name of "reform" they create huge government corporations to exercise vast powers beyond the control of Congress—and the people. They say the constitution is outmoded. They manipulate and color public news and official records. They extend their already too great control over the radio. They propose that the power to tax and appropriate shall be placed in the hands of the executive. They belittle Congress until Speaker Rayburn of the House of Representatives and various congressional committees have had to denounce them openly. They would destroy the states. They bribe the people with their own money. They remove the ancient landmarks.

It is an old saying that "The Greeks, vanquished, took their captors, captive." Will the principles of a dead Hitler sprout, like dragons' teeth, among his conquerors?

Power Surrender Folly Is Stressed By German Fate

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"Our Reich shall live a thousand years," Hitler screamed. In thirteen short years it was gone.

"Never in our history have we been conquered by the force of our foes, but always by our own vices and the enemy in our camp alone." So says "Mein Kampf."

But now the gates of Berlin have been battered down. Hitler himself became the enemy in the German camp. No longer the folly of the Kaiser or the despised generals, or know if Russia contemplated a change in her Far Eastern policy.

American officials likewise have been observing a discreet and studied silence on all phases of a possible entry of Russia into the war. Military and naval experts everywhere in the world have doubtless been surveying the possibilities and no doubt some Chinese authorities are not too enthusiastic about a Russian entry into the war which might complicate the political settlements later on.

Russia Not Pressed

But all these are to be subordinated to the main point, which is that Russia will decide for herself when and how she will enter the war, if she ever feels that such a step is necessary. As for the United States, there is not the slightest ground for the belief that Russia is being pressed to make a decision either way.

It may be assumed that whatever decision Russia makes will be satisfactory to the United States, and it may even be inferred that any step which really hastens the ending of the Far Eastern war will be enthusiastically welcomed by the American people. The question of whether Russia's entry would delay the defeat of Japan and actually prolong the war is as debatable as the thesis that it would accelerate the ending. The problems of supply and transportation are very big in any event. Any military appraisal of land warfare on the continent of Asia must take into account the matter of sending munitions and equipment to the vast number of troops which will be needed for a large-scale affair.

For while it is true that Japan has been defeated on and above the seas and has lost not only a substantial part of her navy but her air force as well, it is also true that the Japanese armies are in a position to wage a prolonged war on the continent of Asia.

Supply Problems Tremendous

The average American assumes that huge Russian armies are available for the fray and forgets that it will take considerable time to build air bases and to capture certain supply routes necessary to any operations in Asia. A glance at the map will satisfy any observer that supply problems, shipping especially, will be tremendous if war should break out between the armies on the Manchurian border.

Viewed simply from the standpoint of allied solidarity and the need for moral support to the new international organization to preserve peace, the idea of Russia's co-operation in a substantial way in every aspect of the war from now on, just as in the past, is eminently desirable.

It is important to record that no official information as to Russia's intentions or America's relationship to any such plan is available. This is one of the best-kept secrets of the war period, and rightly so.

The fact that Russia and the other Allies are co-operating here in San Francisco and that the Soviet Union expressed herself so clearly in her statement last month in which the treaty with Japan was denounced, is a sufficient indication that the same attitude toward Japan's aggression as have the people of the United States and Great Britain.

Up to Russia

The debate, therefore, on whether or not Japan's entry would increase our logistic problems or would hasten the ending of the war is largely academic, for, whatever way the events may turn, it may be taken for granted that any decisions would naturally have been planned many months ago.

Russian neutrality on the one hand would not cause any ill feeling in America, because it would be understandable, and Russian participation, on the other hand, would be greeted enthusiastically. The choice, however, is Russia's and she will announce her course in due time in her own way.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Every evidence indicates that no matter what other impressions may be derived from the maneuvering or bargaining here on specific points, the relations between Russia and the United States as well as Great Britain are not only harmonious but may be termed an example of practical unity.

Thus, there has been much talk as to whether there will be a Japanese-Russian clash in the Far East. But this in no way concerns the conversations going on here about the charter. Foreign Commissar Molotov declined to answer a question from correspondents at his press conference who wanted to LISTEN, WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

We've been pruning the garden. Wow, what a job. At last you come down to what was once a carefully tended garden — or business — and find it's run amuck.

California gardens, for instance. Turn your back on them for a few weeks and you come back to find your carefully trained shrubs swooping up like vegetable giraffes—heliotropes and fuchsias webbed across your window, delicate vines swollen to the proportions of boa constrictors. Lovely mess. So you steel your nerves and hack away without mercy, or else your garden will be strangled by its own denseness.

That isn't just true of gardens. It's true of human beings as well. Of you. And of me.

Healthy life isn't just a process of growing. There are all kinds of growth, destructive as well as constructive. Growth that kills as well as growth that gives beauty. So life is a process of pruning as well as growing.

You've seen unpruned lives. They started out with healthy ambition and curiosity. They were all set for orderly and lovely growth. And then something happened. There was some neglect, some hurt, some laziness or stubbornness on their own part. And instead of going ahead they ran amuck. They became solitary and unsocial. They let their private peeves and prejudices multiply until no breath of progress could penetrate their inner darkness. And in that darkness the stagnation grew and grew until they were shut off from the wind and the sunlight and the starlight of normal existence.

We've all of us known times like that. Sometimes it came with grief or poverty, self-pity or rebellion. But always when it came, life went back to the jungle.

If you want a rose to bloom you must cut in back every year, cut out the old wood and give the new shoots a chance. And by the same token if you want a life to bloom you must cut out its dead wood, lay it open to the saving service of conflict and criticism, let the new ideas, the new viewpoints have a chance.

It won't be easy. It may, indeed, be very painful to do this. For, of course, you won't believe that you need pruning. Demoralization is an insidious affair. A garden doesn't announce that it's going to heck . . . neither does a character. A garden is perfectly content to be comfortable in its matted darkness. So is a character. And the longer either a garden or a character remains unpruned, the tougher it will be to tackle.

Maybe you've vaguely wondered why you've lost your interest in life . . . why people don't seek your advice or respect your views. Then take a tip, my friend. Give yourself an honest once-over. Then get out your pruning shears.

and PRESERVE next Summer

you'll be mighty thankful next Winter

No one need tell the housewife about food scarcities even now, and it takes only simple mathematics to determine that with more millions of mouths to feed as weeks go on, stringencies in food will be even more severe.

A little effort now in your garden will yield rich rewards in fresh vegetables during the summer and row on row of canned foods for your shelves . . . a bulwark against shortages next winter.

The Gas Range is the ideal source of heat when canning. The close temperature control, the instant heat, the speed and economy with which it helps do the job, all contribute to your satisfaction. And when you're busy gardening or canning, and mealtime rolls around, the Gas Range makes cooking go fast and with little effort.

You'll save money too by gardening and canning. Money you can put in War Bonds.

Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes Heads Emmanuel Guild

Benefit Card Party To Be Given May 25 with Mrs. Pitkethly in Charge

Emmanuel Episcopal Guild elected Miss Elizabeth L. Lowndes president at the meeting yesterday afternoon. Other officers include Mrs. John Bestwick, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Sheckles, second vice president; Mrs. Cyril M. Croft, treasurer; Mrs. John Wellington, secretary; Mrs. T. M. Andrews, educational secretary; and Mrs. Matthew Livingston, UTO custodian.

The Nominating committee consisted of Mrs. A. W. Keight, chairman, Mrs. Dudley Browne, Mrs. Chester Wolfe and Mrs. George G. Young.

Officers will be installed at a special service in the church, with the Rev. David C. Watson officiating, preceding the monthly meeting, June 12.

Plans were formulated for a card party for the benefit of the debt fund, to be held May 25. Mrs. James M. Pitkethly was appointed chairman of arrangements and will be assisted by Mrs. Cyril Geare and Mrs. Walter H. Hindle.

Yearly reports of circle leaders and chairmen were also given.

Reports Are Given At Sorority Meeting

Alumnae Chapter of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority met Monday evening at the home of Miss Lillian Boughton, LaVale, president. Mrs. John Wieland, acting secretary, gave her report, and Mrs. Fred Mills gave the report of the treasurer and announced that approximately $11 had been raised for the chapter's philanthropic work.

Miss Boughton reported on the Red Cross fracture pillows the members had made, told of how much they were appreciated and called for more workers. The work schedule for the servicemen's lounge was made out for May 18.

The program, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ralph Luman, consisted of each member naming her favorite book and explaining why she chose it. Books named were "Black Boy," "Winter's Moon," "Kitty Fogle," Poe's stories, "The Robe," "Earth and High Heaven," the work of Gene Stratton Porter, "Apartment in Athens," "Captain from Castile," "Lost Horizon," "Little Women" and "On Being a Real Person."

A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served. Miss Kay Catlett will be hostess for the meeting June 4 at her home, Arch street.

National Childhood Group Works Out Plan of Action

Information sent in by various branches of the National Association for Childhood Education was analyzed at the expanded board meeting held in Washington, D. C., last weekend. The meeting was limited to one delegate from each state and Maryland was represented by Mrs. James E. Yarnall. Seven major problems were evolved, which were discussed in general and later worked out in specific detail as a plan of action by smaller work groups.

The plans of action consisting of the problems and suggestions for coping with them, will be published and sent to local branches for distribution. It was pointed out that the problems are not complete in themselves, but are proposed as a guide to a concentrated effort for working for children throughout the country.

The plans are first, interpretating the children; second, interpretating the school program; third, improving the health of the children; fourth, improving school facilities; fifth, improving ways of working in the school; sixth, improving ways of working with other groups, local, state, national and international; and seventh, improving ways of working in the ACS itself.

The possibility of having an international office of education, which will be purely of educationists free of politics, was discussed and outlined with Dr. Ralph Strebel, Washington, liaison committee of the international bureau of education, leading the talk. Through this office information on education would be exchanged and each country would make it's contribution.

The national organization has more than 38,000 members consisting of teachers, administrators, parents, students of education and community works, many leaders in the field of church, education, and welfare.

Students from China, the Philippines, Haiti, Panama, Brazil, New Zealand and England who are sent here by their governments to study the school systems and upon their return home train the teachers, were guests at the meeting, and told of their findings and experiences, stressing their study of the nursery and kindergarten schools.

Among the speakers were Dr. Jean Betzner of Teachers college, Columbia, Dr. Laura Zirbes, Ohio State college; Dr. Margaret Meade, New York, American Museum of Natural history; Miss Catherine Lenroot, Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor; Dr. Mary D. Davis, United States Department of Education; Dr. Bess Goodykoontz, United States Office of Education; and Mrs. Harriett A. Houdlette, president of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Yarnall worked with the group on the resolution No. 6, compiling the branch information and making a lengthy study added it's own suggestions.

May Queen Will Be Crowned Here At Festival

Program Is Announced for Event at Centre Street School

The traditional crowning of the May Queen and dancing around the May pole will be features of the May day festival to be held at the Centre Street school, tomorrow and Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

Receive Letters

At an essembley program held in Davis high school Friday the following athletic students of the school received letters and certificates for their participation in basketball during the past year in which Davis was the runnerup in the sectional basketball tournament.

Those receiving letters were: Stanley Borkoski, William Hall, Benson Flanagan, Edward Kepner, James Bergstrom, Carl Woycik, James and Kenneth Arnold. The manager, Paugh, James Clark, Robert Heltzel, Ernest Arhar, and the four cheerleaders—Regina Ingram, senior; Betty Johnson, Junior, Ruth Hall, sophomore and Janet Saygers, freshman, also received letters and certificates.

Receives Award Late

Mrs. Elmyra Harmon, Davis, has received word from her daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Muse, Sr., Springfield, O., that her husband has belatedly received the Silver Star medal which he won during the fight for France in the first World war.

The presentation was made in February, almost twenty-five years from the day he was cited, in January, 1920.

Muse entered the army in May, 1918, and received his training at Camp Gordon, Ga. After two months training he was sent overseas and landed in Cherbourg, France.

After shaving early one morning he slipped his silver cased razor inside his breast pocket. Shortly thereafter a bullet tore through the case, broke the guards of the razor, and dented the back of the case. The impact broke two of his ribs. Later he was wounded in the leg and hospitalized.

After recovering he was among the army of occupation of Germany, serving until the summer of 1919. He was mustered out of the service at Camp Meade, Md., after eighteen months duty.

Muse received the Silver Star for gallanry in action, the Croix de Guerre with two palm clusters, the United States Service ribbon, the occupational ribbon and three major engagement battle stars. He was in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Muse married the former Nancy Harmon Davis, and they have one son, Edward J. Muse, Jr., now serving in the Hawaiian islands.

Announce Marriage

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mildred Bertha Williams, Washington, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Williams, Grafton, to Cpl. Harvey Johns, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johns, Fremont, O.

The double ring cermony was solemnized Saturday, April 7, in the parsonage of the Trinity Lutheran church in Washington, with the Rev. H. M. Hennig, pastor of the church, officiating.

Miss Mabel Welch, Washington, was the bride's attendant and Cpl. John Mabry served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Johns is a graduate of Parsons high schol in the class of 1942 and has been employed by the Bell Telephone Company in Arlington, Va., for the past three years.

The couple will visit relatives here and Ohio before returning to their duties.

HOW SMART ARE YOU?

Plenty smart, if you are one of the thousands of girls and women who have found blessed relief from "monthly grumps" in Chi-Ches-Ters Pills. Of course, they do not correct organic menstrual conditions that require consultation with your doctor. But they do help to relieve the discomfort of functional pains, cramps, headaches and nervousness that frequently accompanies the normal menstrual period. Taken according to directions, preferably two or three days in advance of your time, Chi-Ches-Ters Pills tend to relax the muscular contraction that is often the cause of unnecessary distress. An added iron ingredient helps promote resistance and energy. Before suffering again ask your druggist for Chi-Ches-Ters Pills, and accept no substitute. Caution: Use only as directed.

Archie F. Cook Named Drive Head

World War II Veteran Will Lead Lonaconing Bond Campaign

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, May 8 — James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion, has named Archie F. Cook, chairman of Americanism of the American Legion post, to head the Seventh War Loan campaign in Lonaconing.

Chairman Cook is a veteran of service during World War II. He entered the service April 7, 1943, and trained in anti-aircraft at Camp Edwards, Mass., as an observer in artillery.

He was then transferred to the air cadets and received his process training at Keesler field, Miss. He went to Oshkosh State Teachers' college, Oshkosh, Wis., where he studied flying and then proceeded to Santa Anna, Cal.

He was transferred to the Eighty-ninth division of the infantry and was injured in California while fighting a forest fire in the line of duty and was hospitalized at Camp Roberts, Cal., and Camp Butner, N. C. He was then transferred to Fort Dix, N. J., where he received a medical discharge January 23, 1945, and returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Cook, Douglas avenue.

Cook announced that a motor caravan in conjunction with the Seventh War Loan drive in Allegany county will be in Lonaconing Saturday, May 19, from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. The town officials, the Lonaconing band, the American Legion post and its auxiliary are expected to greet the caravan.

During the bond-selling rally war trophies will be displayed. A Forty and Eight Society locomotive will also be in the caravan's make-up. Cook urges a large attendance at this bond rally to help put the Seventh War Loan drive over the top. All bonds bought in Lonaconing during this period will be accredited to the James P. Love Post's record.

The auxiliary of the post will also aid in the Seventh War Loan drive by having a bond booth on Main street each Saturday to stimulate the sale of bonds for complete victory.

Cook said, "We have won the war in Europe; let us strive for peace in the Pacific. Be in the fight by backing our boys with war bonds to bring V-P (victory in the Pacific) closer so that you might rightfully rejoice when complete victory comes."

Present Program

The senior class of Central high school presented its farewell program to the high school assembly this afternoon in the auditorium of the school.

The class history was given by Rose Esther McDonough, Donald Lee, Arlie Morgan and Marguerite Allen. The class poem was recited by Phyllis Muir. Jean Gardner read the class will.

The class song was sung by the seniors. "The Rosary" was played on the piano by Elaine Dye. Prophecies were made by Elizabeth Colmer, Marie Beeman, Marie Smith, and Edna Beeman.

The "Bombshells" played a musical selection. A farewell speech was made by James Steele, president of the senior class, on behalf of the graduating students. The seniors sang a farewell song.

Celebrate V-E Day

As President Harry S. Truman proclaimed Victory in Europe at 9 a. m. the whistles of the General Textile Mill, Inc., and the Goodwill volunteer fire company No. 1 blew and the church bells rang out in Lonaconing.

The Lonaconing City band played victorious marches and patriotic songs on the main street all morning. Then the band members boarded the firemen's squad truck and played as they rode around town.

Local schools were closed all day in observance of V-E day. Classes will be resumed tomorrow. All business establishments, the post office and bank were closed today.

Flags were placed on the sidewalks along the main streets. Flags were also numerous in the yards and flying from windows.

Frostburg Stores, Offices Are Closed In V-E Observance

Schools Are Dismissed; Union Church Service Is Held in Evening

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 8 — Frostburg celebrated V-E day today according to plans previously arranged by the Frostburg Business Association. All places of business closed for twenty-four hours immediately after President Truman's official announcement that the war in Europe had ended. The only places remaining open were the post office and the banks.

Church doors were opened following the president's proclamation and remained open throughout the day for those who wished to come for silent worship and prayer. Although the schools were closed, the streets were practically deserted and few children were on the streets.

There was no ringing of bells and blowing of whistles, but the loudspeaker system in the steeple of First Methodist church, played hymns of thanksgiving and praise continuously during the morning and afternoon. Patriotic selections were also broadcast by a loudspeaker system in the business district.

There was no noticeable excitement on the streets, and Chief of Police Benjamin Thomas reported that all licensed places selling liquor were closed, as well as restaurants.

A union service was held this evening in First Methodist church, the speakers being the Rev. Henry Little, D. D., whose subject was "Remembrance," and the Rev. Walter V. Simon, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, whose topic was "Dedication." Appropriate vocal music was sung by a choir of singers from the various churches of the community, under the direction of Prof. Arthur Thomas.

The Arion band gave a concert in front of the Gunter hotel at 7 p. m., and special services were held at St. Michael's Catholic church at 7:30 p. m.

Hoffman Soldier Wounded

Pfc. Robert Raley, 26, son of Frank Raley, Hoffman, was wounded in action April 20 while fighting with an infantry outfit of the Seventh army in Germany, according to a telegram which his father received recently from the War department.

Pfc. Raley entered the army in October, 1942, and went overseas in May, 1944. He is former employe at the Celanese plant.

A brother, Pfc. John Raley, 29, was killed in action while fighting on the island of Saipan August 2, 1944.

Henline Plays Leading Role In Operetta

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, May 8—William O. Henline, Hancock, a junior at Frostburg State Teachers college, has the leading male role in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Patience" or "Bunthorne's Bride," to be presented Friday, May 11 at 8 p. m. in the college auditorium, under direction of Prof. Maurice Matteson, head of the music department.

Henline will play the part of Reginal Bunthorne, the portrayal being a parody on the poet, Oscar Wilde. It is stated that professional and amateur actors are eager to portray this character because it allows for a great deal of over acting. Bunthorne represents the aesthetic and literary classes which indulged in the foibles of the Victorian age and is the object of the affection of twenty love-sick maidens who constantly follow him about. Bunthorne solves his problems by offering himself in a raffle to determine who shall be his bride.

Henline, a son of Mrs. Madeline Henline, has spent much time in preparation for his singing and speaking parts. The rest of the cast has been rehearsing for many weeks for the production which is planned as the outstanding dramatic event of the year at the college.

The sale of tickets is in charge of the student body.

R. B. Leatherman Dies at His Home

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., May 8 — Raphael Byron Leatherman, 70, died Monday night at his home in Grant county across the Mineral line near Burlington. He was the son of the late Jeramiah Clinton and Sarah Frances Rotruck Leatherman and spent his life in the community where he was born.

He was a minister in the Church of the Brethren and for many years was engaged as a rural school teacher in Grant and Mineral counties. He was retired from his teaching profession a few years ago and was re-employed to teach his home school last year.

In addition to his professional work he operated a small farm in the Harness Run section of Grant county. He studied for a time in the old preparatory school, now Potomac State college, Keyser.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Noah Rotruck, Romney, W. Va., and two nephews.

Funeral services will be held in Knobley church at 2:30 p. m. Thursday. Interment will be in the Knobley church cemetery.

C. F. Harrison Dies

Charles F. Harrison, 69, Grafton, died Sunday. A native of Mineral county, he was born at Antioch. His parents were the late "Tip" and Harriett Harrison Harrison.

His widow was Miss Bertha Rogers, daughter of the late T. B. and Evelyn Dye Rogers, Antioch. Soon after marriage the Harrisons moved to Bayard, W. Va., and later going to Grafton where he was employed for some years by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.

Besides his widow he is survived by five children: Mrs. Nina Smith, Keyser; Mrs. Mladys Newcome, Youngstown, O., Dale and Winnifred Harrison and Mrs. Dorothy Collier, Grafton. Mrs. Collier's husband is serving with the army on Trinidad.

Funeral services will be held in Grafton, Wednesday. The body will be brought to Keyser, arriving Wednesday, and will be taken to Queens Point cemetery where it will be interred.

Hospital Notes

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Rexroad, Swanton; a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. James Williamson, Keyser; and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeNicola, Keyser, in Potomac Valley hospital.

Others admitted to the hospital included Attorney William MacDonald, Mrs. Raymond Dean, Keyser; Mrs. Sam Haggerty, Burlington, and Miss Prova Scherr, Medley.

Tri-Towns Schools And Businesses Close for V-E Day

Special Services Are Held at Churches in Community

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, May 8—V-E day was celebrated today in the Tri-Towns by the closing of schools; special church services and the closing of business places.

At Westernport the Hammond street and Bruce high schools were closed all day and the St. Peter's parochial school was dismissed after hearing the proclamation of President Harry S. Truman.

The Luke school closed all day. The graded school and the high school met in the high school at 9 a. m. and following the hearing of appropriate music and an address by the Rev. Robert L. Vining, of the Piedmont Presbyterian church, they were dismissed for the day.

While the proclamation was being read by President Truman the fire alarm and blackout signal were sounded for several minutes.

The drum corps of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, Piedmont, W. Va., followed by many children paraded the streets of the Tri-Towns.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock a union service was held at the Trinity Methodist church, Piedmont, sponsored by the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association.

The Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor of the Westernport First Baptist church, spoke on "Thanksgiving" and the Rev. Raymond L. Moore, president of the association and pastor of Trinity church, spoke on "Dedication."

Prepare for Election

At the meeting of Mayor Harry Bucy and the Piedmont city council last night the officials for the biennial city election, to be held Monday from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., were named. They are Ormond Ledlow, T. J. Martin, Mrs. Arthur Wheeler, Roy LeFevre and Eugene Paxton.

The damaged condition of the wall and curbing on East Fairview street was reported by Councilman John Ward. Following a motion of Councilman Harold Fredlock it was ordered repaired.

As soon as men can be secured, it was announced, a new water pipe will be constructed across the Luke bridge. Following a motion by Councilman Fredlock it was ordered the city office be closed all day today.

Mayor Bucy read a communication from the league of Municipalities stating that a law had been passed by the state legislature permitting the city to pay membership dues into the organization, one per cent a citizen, amounting to $26.77 annually. The league exchanges information and ideas designed for the more efficient administration and conduct of municipal government affairs.

A permit was granted Mrs. Clyde Tranum to build a lumber chicken coop at 85 Erin street.

Plan Musical

A musical program sponsored by the Piedmont Hill circle will be presented at Trinity Methodist church Piedmont, by the girls' glee club of Potomac state school, Keyser, W. Va., at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Mrs. E. E. Church directs the group.

The program will include: Send Forth Thy Spirit, Hear My Prayer, God So Loved the World, There Is No Death and Concerto B Flat Minor.

There Are Such Things, The Night of A Thousand Eyes, This Is My Country, The Time of Making Songs, Carmena, There's A Lark in My Heart, Down in the Forest and Mountains.

Mrs. Umstot Dies

Mrs. Katherine M. Umstot, 69, of 309 Vine street, died this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas White, Baltimore, where she had been visiting the past five months.

Mrs. Umstot was born at Patterson's Creek, near Fort Ashby, W. Va., the daughter of Daniel and Alice Allen. She had lived in Westernport for forty-seven years and was a member of the Piedmont Presbyterian church. She was the widow of Thomas W. Umstot.

Besides Mrs. White she leaves two other daughters—Mrs. Dorothy Harmon, Westernport, and Mrs. Patrick Small, Piedmont; two sisters—Mrs. Virginia Friend and Mrs. Walter Ellifritz, Keyser, W. Va.; a brother, Edward Allen, Ellerslie; Eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body will be brought to her home in Westernport tomorrow. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Westernport Briefs

Philos Lodge No. 91, Odd Fellow's, and Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 19 will hold a joint roll call Wednesday at 8 p. m. A program will be presented and refreshments served. Odd Fellows and Rebeccas of Western Maryland and Keyser, W. Va., have been invited.

The Westernport homemakers club will present a Mothers' day program at their May meeting Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. E. Gerstell, Jr., Maryland avenue. Members will answer to roll call with a quotation about mother. Miss Maude Bean, Allegany county home demonstration agent, will speak on nutrition and utility clothes.

Services will be held at the residence, 309 Vine street, at 2:30 p. m. Friday for Mrs. Katharine M. Umstot, 69, widow of Thomas W. Umstot. She died Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas White, Baltimore. The Rev. Robert L. Vining, pastor of the Piedmont Presbyterian church will officiate. Interment will be in Philos cemetery.

Personals

Meyersdale Church Calls Minister

By W. A. SHOEMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., May 8 — There was a large attendance of members of the local Church of the Brethren Sunday morning to hear the Rev. S. Loren Bowman, of Stuart's Draft, Virginia, preach a trial sermon, being a prospective applicant as pastor of the congregation to succeed the Rev. DeWitt L. Miller, pastor for the past seven years, who has tendered his resignation, effective September 1, to accept the pastorate of the Church of the Brethren at McPherson, Kans., where one of the colleges of the church is located.

Sunday evening at a specially called meeting of the church council, which was presided over by the Rev. Walter F. Berkebile, pastor of the Rockwood church, who is also secretary of the Ministerial Board of the Western district of Pennsylvania, the Rev. Mr. Bowman was chosen as pastor to succeed Rev. Miller. The Rev. Mr. Bowman will take charge of the work here about September 1.

Band Will Play

The Meyersdale High School Band will hold its seventh annual spring concert in the high school auditorium Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. The concert will be under the direction of Prof. Hugh Morrison, supervisor of instrumental music, when the following program will be rendered:

"Cavatina," Raff; March, "El Capitan," Sousa; "In A Persian Market," Kewtelbey; March, "On the Mall," Goldman; Trombone solo, Smith; Harvey Moser; Entrance and March of Peers-Sullivan, from "Iolanthe"; (a) "Abide With Me," (b) "My Faith Looks Up To Thee" — (Played in memory of our late President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.)

Hartman, County Supt. of Schools; Overture, "Horizon," Buys; March, "President Washington," Harneh; "A Bedtime Story," Callen; or "Dan McGrew," with effects, James Mc Kenzie, narrator; "The Whistler and His Dog," Pryor; "Cypress Silhouettes," Bennett; "The Star-Spangled Banner," (Audience to join in singing first stanza).

Marriage Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Genevieve Trierweller, of Lansing, Mich., and Lt. William Larue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Larue, of Meyersdale, took place Sunday afternoon, April 15, at 4 o'clock, in the chapel of Smoky Hill army air field, Salina, Kans., with Chaplain Dennis Tarter, reading the nuptial vows of the double-ring ceremony.

They were attended by Mrs. Robert Abel and Lt. Robert Fahrland. Lt. Larue is navigator of a B-29 bomber, and the members of his crew attended the wedding in a body.

Following the ceremony a Sunday night supper for ten guests was given at the officers' club. After a brief honeymoon Lt. and Mrs. Larue returned to Salina, Kans., where they reside at 733 Sheridan avenue.

Lt. Larue is a graduate of the Meyersdale high school, and Ashland college, Ashland, Ohio. He enlisted as an aviation cadet shortly following his graduation and received his commission at Selman Field, Monroe, La., on Dec. 23, 1944. The bride, whom he first met while attending Michigan State college, at Lansing, was employed in a secretarial capacity there prior to her marriage.

VICTORY SHIPS ARE NAMED FOR COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

BALTIMORE, May 8—The last of Bethlehem-Fairfield's fifty small-town named Victory ships has been launched. Rushville, Ill., was the last town to be honored by a Victory ship launching at the yard.

A number of the towns chose as sponsor the first woman to lose a son in the present war. Nine of the sponsors were wives of the town mayors. The fifty towns selected by the United States Maritime Commission were chosen primarily because they were typical of the states in which they were located. Twenty-eight states were represented in the ship-naming program for Victory ships built at Fairfield yard. They represent all of the states east of the Mississippi in addition to Minnesota, Missouri and Louisiana.

The "Frostburg Victory", named for Frostburg, was the twenty-sixth Victory ship of the group to be built at the Fairfield yard. The vessel was launched Jan. 20, this year, and was sponsored by Mrs. Marshall C. Skidmore, the wife of the mayor of Frostburg.

All Victory ships being constructed at Bethlehem-Fairfield yard now are named after colleges or universities. Two of these vessels already have been launched.

Pfc. La Rue Is Wounded

Pfc. Roy C. La Rue, son of Mrs. Josephine La Rue, Ellerslie, has been reported wounded while in action in the European theater. Further details and the front at which he fought have not been revealed.

War Conditions Scramble Morals Of Many Women

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I am a soldier, 22 years of age, have been in service three years. I don't drink, smoke or curse. I did dance, but due to an accident a short time after enlistment, I cannot dance any more. My question is: What kind of girls are we coming home to?

"Early in '43 I met a girl who, I thought, was the most wonderful girl I'd ever met. Everything went fine; were were to be married in spring; I gave her the ring at Christmas. But to my surprise when I went to see her a month or so ago, she said she didn't love me any more, although she had written me a few days before that, that I was the only one she'd ever loved.

"Now I get word from some friends that she has turned to a 'good time gal.' All the time I was engaged to her I never so much as laid a hand on her. I've been brought up to respect girls. I still love her, but she says it is 'no soap.' Is that the way girls are going to treat us when we get home?

"She has asked me to forgive her, and she still writes to me and wants to be friends. What would you do if you were in my place?

G. I. JOE."

Here's hoping you won't think—and this goes for a number of other boys, as well—that all the girls you left behind have become "good time gals."

War conditions, place, time, easy money, trying to forget, gnawing anxiety in a little fleeting recklessness—these things have scrambled the morals of a good many unthinking women. And morals, like eggs, once scrambled can't be unscrambled.

No matter how much you may happen to love this girl at the present time, it would be unwise for you to marry her, even if she consented. Under your influence she'd probably imagine some cold, gray morning when the temporary lovemaking of some rough-stuff fellow began to pall, that the other way of life would be better, that it would be more satisfying to have a reliable husband, home, even children—if she could visualize them as dolls becomingly dressed.

But these things would seem tame, come another cold, gray morning, say Monday, when the laundress didn't come and the dydee wash refused to take any more dydees, and the fussing over meat points seemed unbearable—no, the "good time gal" isn't a safe bet as a wife.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Lt. Frank B. Vandegrift Inaugurates Grease Salvage Department in Camp

A Cumberlander, Lt. Frank B. Vandegrift, who operated the Southern hotel here before entering the army in September 1942, conceived and instituted a grease salvage department at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., about eight months ago that according to a copy of the "Fort Leavenworth News", which recently reached the NEWS, has earned for itself a reputation for high degree efficiency.

Fine Record Is Made

From last June 5, when the project was inaugurated, until the latter part of February, the department, out of the waste fats salvaged from cuts of meat in the post's ten mess halls, rendered enough pure lard to save the post approximately $6,844 at the current price of sixteen cents a pound.

The project is operated under the direction of Lt. Vandegrift, who is post food service supervisor at the post. The waste fat cut from meat at the mess halls, is gathered and taken to the rendering room where it is cut into small pieces and placed in one of two large aluminum vats for "cooking". The cooking is done in about three or four hours with high pressure steam.

"When the fats have been sufficiently cooked," the Fort Leavenworth News said, "the grease is drained off and placed in tin containers for freezing. What remains in the vats is known as 'cracklings'. Ordinarily it would be supposed these 'cracklings', which look like small round balls of fat, about the size of a marble, could be discarded since the lard which had been rendered has represented a 100 per cent savings. But no, Lt. Vandegrift and his staff were not satisfied with going just that far. They delved around until they found they could sell the cracklings to a Kansas City rendering firm for a cent a pound.

Officers Well Pleased

"Not satisfied with the savings thus created by these two operations, Lt. Vandegrift and his men expanded their operations to cover still another field. They began to include the salvage of what is known as 'spent grease' from the mess halls. 'Spent grease' is salvaged from cooking in the mess hall, and the grease salvage department has turned it into a four figure saving.

"The record of operations of the department has earned for it high praise from authorities both at Fort Leavenworth and in Omaha. Recently, on a tour of inspection of mess halls on the post, a group of food supervisory officers from Headquarters of the Seventh Service Command at Omaha viewed the rendering plant for the first time. They expressed astonishment at what had been accomplished by Lt. Vandegrift and his men and were high in their commendation of the work being done."

The Fort Leavenworth paper said that perhaps some of the high degree of efficiency with which the plant is operated is due to the fact that Lt. Vandegrift was formerly a hotel operator in his native Maryland before entering the service.

Lt. Vandegrift, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Vandegrift, Ridgeley, returned to Fort Leavenworth last week after spending a furlough here.

Nostradamus, noted astrologer and predicter of things to come, also operated a beauty parlor, with Catherine de Medici as one of his patrons.

YES MAN

My name is Marlin S. Wickline. I'm the "Yes" man at Personal Finance Co. . . . that is—I'm the man who likes to say "Yes" to requests for Personal loans.

You see—I'm the manager of our office—the man who's responsible for building up our business. The more times I say "yes" to requests for loans—the more business we do. And since making Personal Loans of $25 to $250 or more is our ONLY business—that's mighty important to me.

Therefore, if you need extra cash at any time—whether a little for a short time or a lot for a long time—you can depend on my doing my best to say "yes" to you.

Next time you can use a loan give me a chance to say "Yes"—won't you? I'll consider it a favor. See me at Personal Finance Co., Rooms 201-205 Liberty Trust Bldg. 2nd Floor. Phone 721. M. S. Wickline, Mgr.

Fort Cumberland Post To Accept Women Members

Amendment To Ban Second World War Women Overwhelmingly Beaten

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, at its regular meeting last evening, overwhelmingly defeated an amendment that would have banned women of World War II from becoming eligible for membership in the organization.

The vote indicated that the majority of members present favored the admission of members of the WAC, WAVES, SPARS, United States Marine Corps Womens' Reserve and the army and navy nurses' corps to membership in the post.

Several Baltimore posts, it is reported, have voted to ban women members but Morris Frock Post, Hagerstown, is one of the state posts which has favored the move to bring women into the organization.

Fort Cumberland Post's membership now includes one woman member from the First World war. She is Mrs. Martha McNary, who served as a nurse.

Several servicewomen of the present war already have made application for membership in the local post.

Filing of Pricing Charts Praised by Local Board

Cumberland merchants have cooperated 100 per cent in complying with OPA regulations requiring the filing of price charts for all clothing and textiles, it was announced yesterday by officials of the local War Price and Rationing Board.

Most of the store proprietors required to file charts had them filled out properly, and in cases where mistakes were made, price panel clerks notified the merchants to correct them.

The charts show the net cost, the selling price, and the average markup on almost all articles of clothing offered for sale as of last March 19. The markup is the ceiling price to be permitted under the new program. The regulation also applies to shoes and designated articles of household furniture.

The local board also praised local merchants for co-operating with all OPA regulations, stating that conditions have greatly improved here in that respect.

Harry A. Porch, chairman of the board, pointed out that the price program will continue "a considerable length of time" after rationing has been discontinued, to prevent black market operations.

Elks Plan V-E Party

A special V-E party from 9 to 11:45 p. m. today will be held at the home of the Cumberland lodge, No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, according to Harry I. Stegmaier, exalted ruler.

Open to all Elks and their women guests, the party will include dancing, entertainment and a bowling match between the Elks and an all-star team of the Club Ladies' league. The grill will be open.

air, emphasized the same point with an implied call to the Japanese people to follow the Nazis in surrender before it is too late.

"The longer the war lasts," the statement said, "the greater will be the suffering which the people of Japan will undergo—all in vain."

Benefits of Freedom

The president emphasized the benefits of freedom from the domination of tyrannical leaders and from "present agony and suffering" which the Japanese would gain from laying down their arms.

The president's words throughout were read carefully, solmenly, without oratorical flourishes.

His one departure from a tone of measured gravity occurred in the news conference. There he mentioned that issuance of the victory proclamation was a happy way to celebrate his 61st birthday. He joshed reporters who have been complaining about his early office hours, telling them he had really gotten them up early today.

Turning grim again, he commented that the Nazis once called us soft and weak, and he wondered what they think about us now.

Government Offices Open

The capital took its V-E day cue from the president, with nothing of jubiliation in the observance. Government workers sloshed through a dismal rain to a regular day's work while Mr. Truman spoke. Sodden flags drooped at half-staff, silent tribute to the memory of the late President Roosevelt.

Mr. Truman's proclamation was the signal for a one-night relighting of the war-darkened capitol dome, Washington monument and other national shrines. But they will be darkened again tomorrow as the war goes on.

The president read his proclamation and its short introduction by radio, sent congratulatory messages to Churchill, Stalin, General Eisenhower and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, then issued the separate statement of what lies ahead for Japan.

War Officially

Arthur Tedder Smith, deputy supreme commander in the west, Lt. Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commander of the French First army and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command.

This act sealed the fate of Japan, which one day will be forced to sign a similarly harsh surrender, for now the full power of the United States and Britain will be loosed against the island empire. Seventy veteran United States combat divisions in Europe alone are released.

Eisenhower's commanders already on this official victory day were turning their attention toward the Pacific.

"The war in Europe is won, but the war in the Pacific is still before us," said Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in Europe.

ECKHART SOLDIER TELLS EXPERIENCES AS WAR PRISONER

Staff Sgt. Robert R. Lancaster, son of Robert Lancaster, Eckhart, home on a sixty-day furlough, was released March 29 from Stalag Camp 9-A, near STiegenhain, Germany, by the Sixth armored division of Patton's Third army.

Sgt. Lancaster was captured at the Belgian bulge battle December 19 and was assigned to a camp near Frankfurt. While being transferred from that camp, he said, American planes strafed the train, killing several Americans. American planes also strafed the prison camp, he said, because it did not show proper markings.

Two Red Cross packages were received by Sgt. Lancaster. He divided them between four and five other prisoners. Sgt. Lancaster lost forty pounds while imprisoned and has gained twenty-five pounds since his liberation.

A sister, Pvt. Caroline Lancaster, is home on a fifteen-day furlough from the WAC outfit at the Newton D. Baker general hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va. A half-brother, Pvt. Eugene B. Delaney, husband of Mrs. Sara Finzel Delaney and father of three children, Eckhart, is training at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Sgt. Lancaster will report to Miami Beach, Fla., for reassignment when his furlough is over.

Tax Collector May Issue Auto License Plates

The job of issuing automobile license tags to owners of motor vehicles in Allegany county soon may rest in the hands of the county tax collector if a bill passed at the recent session of the state legislature is signed by Gov. O'Conor.

As passed by the legislature, the bill provides two alternatives. One provides for issuance of the licenses by the county collector and the other offers a complicated method of motor vehicle tax collections by the department of motor vehicles and remittances to the counties and through them to incorporated towns.

FBI To Demonstrate Here

An FBI demonstration of submachinegun, rifle, shotgun and practical pistol methods as taught at the national police academy, Quantico, Va., will be given at the Celanese plant pistol range at 10 a. m. today for Allegany and Garrett county law enforcement officers.

Fred Hallford, recently named special agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the FBI, will speak briefly before the demonstration is given.

Camera Club To Meet

The regular monthly meeting and print contest of the Cumberland Camera Club will be held today at 7:45 p. m. in the Central YMCA. Samuel H. Dooley is program chairman.

John H. Evans Is Re-Elected Mayor Of Lonaconing

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, May 8—John H. Evans was re-elected mayor of Lonaconing today for a two-year term as Lonaconing voters paused in V-E day celebrations to turn in one of the largest votes in recent years.

Elected to serve with him were James L. Nightingale, Wilmoth F. Garlitz and William H. Berry as councilmen and Thomas McCormack as bailiff.

Votes cast in the election, held from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the council chamber, Railroad street, were:

Heavy Vote Cast

Mayor—Evans, 265; Schaidt, 175.

Councilman—Berry, 291; Garlitz, 306; Hutcheson, 194; Nightengale, 347; Moses, 40.

Bailiff — Hutcheson, 65; McCormack, 276; Moses, 132.

Total votes cast, 473.

Evans, incumbent mayor, began as mayor in 1942 when he was elected for a one year term. He was re-elected in 1943 for two additional years.

Nightengale, a coal miner, and Garlitz, a Celanese worker, are both newcomers to office while Berry was running for re-election as councilman.

McCormack, who will serve his first term as bailiff, is unemployed. Moses, who ran second in the race for bailiff, was appointed to the post last July after Simeon Hutcheson resigned.

Take Office in June

Clerks for the election were Daniel Stakem and James Creighton. Daniel James, Arch Ferrens and John Barry were judges.

The newly elected town officials will take office the first week in June. The terms of Thomas Fisher and John D. Robertson, present councilmen, expire in June. Holdovers in the six-man council are Henry McLarkie, James Hadley and Douglas Waddell.

Nursing Consultant Visits Red Cross Chapter Here

Miss Gertrude Dale, nursing consultant for eastern area Headquarters of the American Red Cross at Alexandria, Va., came to Cumberland yesterday to confer with officers of the local chapter regarding nurse recruitment, the home nursing program, and the work of the nurses' aide corps.

Miss Mary Small, secretary of the nurse recruitment committee, took Miss Dale to Allegany and Memorial hospitals, where the recruiting of nurses for military service was discussed. Twenty local nurses are now available for such service, Miss Small pointed out.

Miss Dale also conferred with Mrs. Richard Penfield, chairman of the volunteer nurses' aide corps, and with Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, chairman of the Red Cross home nursing committee.

Extension Course Is Completed

The class in "Clinical Teaching," the first extension course in nursing education to be given at Allegany hospital, since its affiliation with Catholic university, was completed by a class of twenty women last evening, with Miss Carmela Guarino in charge. Each member received two credits on the university degree for the fifteen week course and plans were discussed for having another course next year.

On behalf of the group Mrs. Wyand F. Doerner presented a gift to Miss Guarino, who is science instructor at Allegany, and is a graduate of Providence hospital, Washington and received her master degree in education from the Catholic university. A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served.

Those completing the course were Mrs. Margaret E. Barbe, Mrs. Mary A. Bartlett, Miss Elizabeth Broadwater, Miss Esther M. Beall, Mrs. Gladys Brooks, Mrs. Doerner, Miss Ann Donahy, Mrs. Cleo Dunlap, Miss Mary Louise Grassi, Miss Viola Hilleary, Mrs. Pauline Knepp, Mrs. Rosella Long, Mrs. Freda Moreland, Miss Ethel Smeltzer, Miss Mary Margaret Smith, Miss Margaret Thompson, Miss Mary Rebecca Suder, Mrs. Helen Storey Vogel, Mrs. Julia Walsh Werner and Miss Georgia Wagner.

The Allegany High Campers, in a wild-and-wooly game in which a total o. six pitchers saw service, trimmed the LaSalle High Explorers, 23-10, at Campobello yesterday to go out in front in the Bi-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference race with three triumphs and tie the Fort Hill Sentinels in the intra-city series with one victory apiece.

The Sentinels had been scheduled to entertain the Hyndman (Pa.) high outfit but the contest was postponed on account of V-E day.

Tom Burns, the winning hurler Monday when Allegany defeated Beall's Mountaineers, twirled one and one-third frames yesterday and received credit for his third straight triumph. He relieved Southpaw Olin Moody in the fourth when LaSalle led 5-3 and in the bottom of the same inning, the Campers exploded for ten runs and the ball game. Tom Jamison worked the last two innings for the West Siders.

Tommy Geatz, the first of three LaSalle hurlers, was charged with his third conference defeat. Frank Niland took over in the fourth while Jack Steiner worked on the slab for the Explorers in the last one and one-third frames.

Allegany collected thirteen hits, including a pair of doubles by Bob Price, a double and single by Dick DeHart and two singles each by John Bachman and Jim Radcliffe. Joe Langan had a triple and single for LaSalle while Steiner drove out a double and single.

The trio of Camper pitchers struck out thirteen with Moody topping the list with eight.

In Allegany's big fourth inning, Price was safe on Elaul's error and advanced on a wild pitch, Fred Willison was hit by a pitched ball, Tom Burns walked, Charles Baker was safe on Geatz's error, Ronald Durst and DeHart each doubled, Tom Powers was hit by a pitched ball, Price doubled, Willison singled, Radcliffe went to second on Bob Mattingly's error and Burns doubled.

LaSalle had gone ahead in the third when it tallied four runs on an error, Langan's triple, John Esposito's single, a walk and Steiner's fielder's choice. Steiner stole second, took third on Moody's error and stole home. The box:

Texcel vs. K. of C. (Fort Hill)

—o—

The Knights of Columbus, defending champions, and the L. O. O. Moose launched the '945 Rocking Chair Softball League season yesterday with victories, the Caseys humbling the B. P. O. Elks, 7-2, at Fort Hill and the Moose winning over the Texcel club, making its debut in the loop, 7-4 at Community park.

The Woodmen of the World and the Cumberland Outdoor Club outfit had been tentatively booked to meet this evening on the Rolling Mill diamond but last night, Manager Brace Lee, of the Woodmen, said the tilt had been indefinitely postponed as the W. O. W. Bowling League will have its banquet this evening.

The Woodmen and Outdoor club will open campaigns tomorrow, when the Moose meet the Outdoor club at Allegany, the Woodmen oppose the Elks at Community park and K. of C. tangles with Texcel at Fort Hill.

"Bobby" Cavanaugh banged out three hits for K. of C. while Bob Collins lashed out a home run for the Elks. The Caseys had fourteen hits while Bill Lee limited the Elks to six blows. "Windy" Wallace did the pitching for the losers.

The Moose clinched their game with a four-run spurt in the sixth, featured by doubles by Claude Comer and Wade. Russ Minnicks, Moose hurler, and Comer each had two safeties for the winning team, while Phil Feaga and Jim Williams shared four of Texcel's seven hits. The Moose-Texcel box:

Phillies May Train In Venezuela in 1946

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 (AP) — General Manager Herb Pennock said today the Phillies may train next spring in Venezuela, possibly Caracas, if the travel ban is relaxed and if arrangements can be made.

Pennock admitted there had been "some talk" of the club going to South America for a pre-spring training grind, but added anything really definite was in the "hazy future."

"The club would go to South America about three weeks before opening its training camp in Florida," Pennock said.

Braves Buy Logan From Indianapolis

BOSTON, May 8 (AP) — The Boston Braves tonight announced the purchase of Bob Logan, 35-year-old left handed pitcher, from the Indianapolis American Association club in a deal involving cash and four players.

Pitcher Armand Cardoni was sent to Indianapolis on option and Infielder Ben Geraghty was turned over outright, as will be two other players to be selected later.

Four Schools To Vie In Fort Ashby Meet

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., May 8—Four schools are expected to take part in the Fort Ashby high invitation track and field meet here Friday, Coach Ben Simoncelli, of the host school, announced today.

Keyser, Capon Bridge, Romney and Fort Ashby will battle it out for the trophy to be awarded the winning team. Medals will go to winners of the various events.

Five Midget Loop Contests Carded

Gephart tossers and the Diplomats, victors in Midget Baseball League openers Sunday, will clash this evening at Campobello in a Northern division battle. Gephart won 20-2 over Bedford Road and the Diplomats edged out the Hershberger Markets, 10-9, in lid-lifters.

In the other Northern clash, today, the Steig Indians will oppose Bedford Road at Stitcher field.

Three contests are on tap in the Southern division with the Sentinels, Senators and Orioles striving for second victories. The Senators will meet the Police Boys' club at Locust Grove, the Orioles and Sentinels will collide at East Side and the Block Busters will tangle with Jerry's Confectioners at Penn avenue.

The Sentinels trimmed the PBC, 14-12; the Senators won over the Confectioners, 9-1, and the Orioles thumped the Block Busters, 15-5, in openers Sunday.

State Guard-AAU Track Meet Set for June 9

BALTIMORE, May 8 (AP)—The Maryland State Guard-South Atlantic A. A. U. track and field championships will be held June 9 at Johns Hopkins Homewood field.

Eleven South Atlantic events, two special tests for high schools and two for servicemen and six events open only to members of the state guard will make up the program.

Placement of veterans by the United States Employment Service during 1944 more than doubled the figure for 1943.

Brooklyn Options Durrett to Montreal

BROOKLYN, May 8 (AP)—Outfielder Elmer (Red) Durrett was optioned to the Montreal Royals, of the International League, today by the parent Brooklyn Dodgers.

Durrett, a Guadalcanal veteran, hit .291 in 142 games for Bruno Betzel's Royals last season and finished up with the Dodgers. An overabundance of outfield talent forced Manager Leo Durocher to leave Durrett on the bench most of the current season although he replaced Luis Olmo in centerfield for a time.

Phils Trade Adams To Cards for Pair

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced today that Buster Adams, regular left fielder, has been traded to the world champion St. Louis Cardinals for two players.

The Phils said they will get in exchange John Antonelli, third baseman who last year batted .312 in 139 games for Columbus, of the American Association, and Glenn Crawford, who played shortstop for Columbus in 1944 and batted .291 in 130 games.

Race Tracks, Closed since Jan. 3, Ready To Reopen when Ban Raised

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP) — Expecting the ban on racing to be lifted within a few days, track officials said today they are ready to resume the sport on which more than one billion dollars were wagered in 1944.

Racing strips, for the most, are in good condition since they have been in use for several weeks as horsemen kept their runners close to actual racing condition. The machinery behind the sport that yielded $55,971,232.87 in states' revenue last year also is all set to go.

The ban on the sport since Jan. 3 means that there will be curtailed seasons in England, New York, Illinois, Maryland and Kentucky since they normally open in April. Track officials met in New York and Illinois today to consider dates.

Here is how the situation shapes up in each section:

MARYLAND — Approximately 1,000 horses quartered at Pimlico and Laurel. Probably will be ten-day joint meeting at Pimlico, May 16-26, with a one-day meeting in June to permit running of the Preakness a week after the Derby.

KENTUCKY — Keeneland plans to open its meeting at Churchill Downs May 19 to be followed by regular downs session. Kentucky derby nominations closed April 25 and expected to be announced soon as ban lifted. Derby may be run June 2 or 9.

NEW YORK — Will open within week or ten days after lifting of restrictions with tracks sharing remaining dates. The decision as to whether the Empire City and Saratoga meetings will be run at their own tracks is up to Gov. Dewey. All major stakes will be run.

ILLINOIS — Sportsman Park said to be able to operate in three days with 800 horses stabled there and at nearby Hawthorne. Washington and Arlington Parks going ahead with major stake program, including two $60,000 futurities, classic, Arlington handicap and American derby.

NEW ENGLAND — Track officials announced today that, if ban lifted by Saturday, Narragansett will open twenty-five-day meeting Saturday and reopen Labor day for thirty days; Suffolk Downs will hold fifty-four day meeting ending week of Aug. 1, and Rockingham will run eighteen days in August and close season with thirty-six day meeting.

OHIO — Beulah Park has 350 horses at track and hopes to resume May 19 or 26 if ban lifted this week. Other major Ohio tracks ready to resume as racing commission fixes dates.

CALIFORNIA—Santa Anita planning summer meeting, holding many of its rich stakes usually run during winter session. Bay Meadows also ready to resume.

DELAWARE AND NEW JERSEY —Delaware Park ready for its regular May 29-July 4 meeting with Garden State Park following July 13-Sept. 8.

WEST VIRGINIA — Tentative dates for sixty-day meetings at Charles Town and Wheeling Downs approved by state racing commission pending ban elimination. The dates will be set to follow immediately the Maryland season, both tracks probably opening May 28 and continuing to July 4.

Pimlico Goes Ahead

BALTIMORE, May 8 (AP)—Maryland turf officials, hopeful that government authorities soon would lift the ban on racing, went ahead today with plans for a brief spring season at Pimlico.

The four major tracks, Pimlico, Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace, were expected to submit applications for dates to the state racing commission as soon as the expected governmental order comes through permitting a resumption of the sport.

As planned now, the joint meeting would open May 16 and close May 26—ten days later. The week after the Kentucky derby, probably June 9, the track would reopen for one day in order to run the historic Preakness, giving the state an eleven-day spring season.

Delaware park at Stanton, Del., normally races in June. Thus the Maryland meeting could not last beyond May 26. Delaware Park officials said however, they would close for the Preakness in order that there would be no interference with the three-year-old classic.

Charles J. McLennan, Pimlico racing secretary, was here from his Florida home to prepare the condition book and have it ready for the printers.

General Manager Matt Daiger said there were about 600 horses at Pimlico, with another 350 stabled at Laurel.

With transportation difficulties still expected to be met until the war with Japan ends, it was believed that only Pimlico and Laurel would conduct fall meetings.

Tentative dates to be proposed to the commission are Sept. 1—Oct. 13 at Laurel, and Oct. 15—Nov. 29 for Pimlico.

In addition the state provides for forty days at the minor tracks, with ten each for Hagerstown, Bel Air, Cumberland and Marlboro, in that order.

Tribesmen Defeat White Sox, 7 to 1

CHICAGO, May 8 (AP)—Cleveland's last-place Indians scored their first victory in six starts over the pace-setting Chicago White Sox, 7 to 1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Charles (Red) Embree at Comiskey Park today.

A two-run homer by brawny Felix Mackiewicz in the sixth inning started the downfall of Starter Orval Grove, who was touched for eight of Cleveland's twelve hits before he retired in the seventh.

Despite the setback, the White Sox clung to first place by a twenty-five point percentage margin over the idle New York Yankees. The box:

Surprising Giants, White Sox Remain Baseball Riddle

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Can the Giants and White Sox keep it up?

That was baseball's big riddle today as the two surprising league leaders prepared to open their first intersectional series.

Evidence to date was all in favor of the front runners who were digging in at home for a long stand under favorable conditions. In the case of the New York club those surroundings included the ever-helpful short foul lines of the Polo Grounds, home run targets for manager Mel Ott, Ernie Lombardi and Phil Weintraub.

While long distance slugging has been the Giants' strong point, consistent pitching and a steady diet of run-producing singles has given the Chicago White Sox the same results.

Ott's pitchers have gone the route only five times in sixteen games, not counting Sunday's 1-1 tie with Boston, and reliable Ace Adams has been summoned for relief on nine occasions.

Despite this unstable hurling, Ott has been able to stick to a regular routine of Bill Voiselle, Van Mungo, Harry Feldman and Andy Hansen against the eastern teams.

Hitting was the answer to the Giants' success with a .269 club average including thirty doubles and seventeen home runs.

Jimmy Dykes's Sox have shown little tendency to batter down the fences but the club's tidy .278 averages is the best in the majors.

Dykes has his mound staff in excellent shape, starters requiring relief only three times in twelve contests and Thornton Lee and Joe Haynes each hurling all the way three times.

Park Place Tossers Blank Trinity, 22-0

Park Place Methodist softballers, operating behind the two-hit pitching of Mervin Copp, shut out Trinity tossers, 22-0, in a Central Y.M.C.A. Sunday School League game at Campobello Monday evening. The winners connected for twenty-six hits with Copp driving out two homers and Harold Hartsock and John Horn each one four-ply blow. Copp received errorless support while Trinity had three miscues.

Better than the Tear!

MIAMI (AP)—Around the Calumet barns at Hialeah this spring the stable help rated the 3-year-old filly, Good Blood, a "better horse" than Twilight Tear. Trainer Ben Jones was more conservative. "She's almost as good," he said.

Fort Ashby Nine Trips Elk Garden

FORT ASHBY, W. Va., May 8 — Coach Ben Simoncelli's "informal" Fort Ashby high school baseball team opened its season today with a 4-1 victory over Elk Garden high tossers on the local diamond.

Powell, who went the seven-inning route for Fort Ashby, allowed only two hits. One of the blows, Elliott's single in the third, followed by two stolen bases and an error by Boore, gave Elk Garden its only run.

Fort Ashby counted three runs in the third on a single by Umstot, a walk to Whitacre, an error, Linn's double and a single by Larson, and pushed across another marker in the fourth when Powell singled and stole second and scored on May's one-baser.

Gowers made the other Elk Garden hit. Larson had three safeties and Umstot and Linn each two for Fort Ashby. Powell struck out thirteen while Reel, Elk Garden's twirler, fanned five. The box:

War Department Lifts Draft Rule For Pro Athletes

Racing Ban May Be Lifted Today; Service Sports Planned

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON, May 8—(AP)—The racing ban may be lifted tomorrow, it was learned today amid swift developments affecting sports as the aftermath of Germany's unconditional surrender.

The White House announced that War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson will hold a news conference at 11 a. m. tomorrow, and it was certain that the racing question would be brought up at that time.

Sportsmen felt confident that Vinson would carry out a suggestion made by James F. Byrnes, former war mobilizer, that racing be allowed to resume after V-E day.

Another development today favorable to sports was the War department's indefinite suspension of a regulation requiring review of all cases of professional athletes rejected in the draft. This rule was lifted pending the result of an investigation on allegations of discrimination.

There also was word from the army that the athletic branch of the service forces has begun immediate preparations for Allied championships in many sports in Europe and that plans are being made for wide-scale competition in the Pacific theater of war.

If the racing prohibition is abolished tomorrow, racing officials said that some tracks probably can reopen in about two weeks. The Kentucky derby, usually held the first Saturday in May, probably would be run May 26 or June 2.

Other headline events like the Pimlico and Belmont stakes would follow in their regular order.

"Schedules for most meets have already been tentatively drawn up," racing officials said, "with Narragansett (Rhode Island) being the first track to open."

"We're pretty well set to go providing the War Manpower Commission will give us some relief on employment ceilings at the tracks," these persons added.

The War department's temporary action on 4-F professional athletes came as the result of protests by Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill) that some of these men were being inducted although they could not meet physical requirements.

Under Secretary of War Patterson ordered an investigation based on Price's complaints of discrimination.

BURTON'S

Uncle Sam's Best Friends Are His Mothers

No question about it, essential war worker Number One is Mother. What a day . . . every day! All of the chores of peacetime and more —stretching ration points and still keeping the family well nourished . . . preparing bandages . . . salvaging paper, cans and fats . . . budgeting for War Bonds and holding onto them . . . tending her Victory Garden and preserving its surplus . . . ending a long day by writing morale-building V-Mail.

We've all made an important discovery in the last three years—that our nation is one big family whose every member is essential to our country's will to win. There's a new understanding of the other fellow's problems . . . a new appreciation of our individual ability and resourcefulness. We've seen with pride what our younger generation can accomplish . . . and we're determined to safeguard their right to opportunity in the land they call Home.

The women of America have proved their resourcefulness in the kitchen in countless ways. Many have discovered that a glass of cold, golden Budweiser makes their simple wartime meals taste better.

Radio Planning National Music Week Observance

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 9—The MBS program that started out as Round-table of Romance already has changed title to Between Us Girls, effective with the Wednesday night broadcast at 10:30. They thought the new title more appropriate or something, as the series deals with affairs of the heart.

For the second program, the lone man guest supplementing or arguing with the panel of four women regulars will be Homer Groy, novelist. The regular panel, with Elissa Landi, as M. C., is made up of Florence Pritchett, fashion editor; Robin Chandler, directress of models; Dorothy Kilgallen, columnist, and Eloise McElhone, "cover girl."

With Which Is Which going ahead on CBS at 9:30 with a guest M.C. in place of the former Ken Murray, the orchestra also has been changed. Now it is that of Lou Bring instead of Dick Himber.

Incidentally on the Blue at 10:30, the Adventures of Tom, Dick and Harry are not listed. Instead there has been inserted Mood and Melody by Rex Maupin's orchestra out of Chicago.

A national music week observance will be had in Music for Tonight on NBC at 11:30 when there will be American tunes and a new composition by Virginia Seay, "San Clemente—Low Tide." Milton Katims conducts the NBC Concert orchestra . . . Joan Brooks, in her regular CBS spot at 11:15 plans a song tribute to Duke Ellington by singing one of he many songs he has turned out.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear daughter, Nancy Elinor Hinick, who passed away one year ago May 9, 1944.

More and more each day, we miss her,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our heart concealed.

Sadly missed by her
MOTHER AND FATHER, ALSO HER MATERNAL GRANDPARENTS,
MR. AND MRS. RALPH SKELLEY,
HER PATERNAL GRANDPARENTS,
MR. AND MRS. CHARLES HINICK.
5-9-1t-N

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Ada S. Beall, who departed this life 7 years ago, May 9, 1938.

Ever in My Memory

Sadly missed by her son,
CPL. CARL R. SMITH.
5-9-1t-N

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Lula May Bloom, who passed away one year ago today, May 9, 1944.

We miss you, dear mother,
We miss your pleasant smile,
We miss your little visits
When you'd linger for awhile.

God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb,
He gently closed your poor tired eyes,
And whispered "Peace be Thine".

We did not know the pain you had,
We did not see you die,
We only know you went away
And could not say good bye.

We often sit and think of you
When we are all alone,
And of the happy days gone by
When we were all at home.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just, to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind;
Beautiful memories she left behind.

Sadly missed by her
HUSBAND, CALVIN BLOOM
AND CHILDREN.

Emergency Loan Official Will Be Here on Tuesday

H. R. McPherson, state supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office, Morgantown, W. Va., will be in the office of Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, on Tuesday from 10 to 11 a. m. to prepare loan blanks for farmers interested in borrowing funds for the purchase of fertilizers, seeds and other supplies.

McPherson said he is prepared for the acceptance of loans to eligible landlords and tenants up to $400, with interest at four per cent. He added that loans are completed within a week or ten days. The loans are being made available so that farmers may co-operate with the War Food Administration program in the county by making early purchases of fertilizer, seed and supplies.

In the event it is not possible for any farmer to call on McPherson on Tuesday, additional future dates of visits in this county will be furnished on request.

Hewitt To Conduct Pearl Harbor Probe

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP) — Admiral Henry R. Hewitt has been assigned by Secretary Forrestal to conduct the secretary's continuing investigation of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe, it was learned today.

Hewitt, whose home is in Hackensack, N. J., until recently was commander of the Eighth fleet and United States naval forces in Northwest African waters. He has been relieved to take his new post.

came out of them bespeaking a firm determination against compromising on what they consider the right of American Republics to settle disputes in their own hemisphere without waiting for a world organization to give clearance. Even without the United States, whose delegation is split on the issue, they have a bloc of twenty votes in the conference.

Still to be settled, also is the question of conference voting rules. An executive committee recommended that big problems be decided by a two-thirds ballot, but a steering committee and the full conference must pass upon this proposal later.

Invasion of Tarakan Isle Off Borneo Is Nearing Completion

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, Thursday, May 10 (AP) — Samal island in Davao gulf was invaded and virtually cleared by the Twenty-fourth infantry division Tuesday while on the Mindanao mainland the Japanese near Davao city fought bitterly, apparently intent on a bloody stand.

The invasion of Tarakan island, of Borneo, neared completion as Australian and Dutch troops seized Api hill and closed in on the Djoeata oil field.

can division; Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, commander of the American Fifth corps; Maj. Gen. Gleb Zlabmirovitsch Baklanoff, commander of the Thirty-fourth Russian corps; and Gen. Vladimir Rusakov, commander of the Fifty-eighth Guards infantry division. The dinner was the official celebration of the meeting of the American and Russian troops at the Elbe river.

From Torgau we started north, behind the Russian lines, traveling sometimes over deserted roads through dark forests. At other times we hit highways clogged with the great body of the Russian army, beating along in its motley array of horse-drawn vehicles of all sorts. There were Russian troops riding in two-wheeled carts, phaetons, in old-fashioned pony carts, in gipsy wagons, and surreys with fringed tops.

Just Like Holiday

The wagons were filled with hay and the soldiers lay on top of the hay like an army taking a holiday and going on a great mass hayride. The fierce fighting men of the Red army in their tunics and great boots, shabby and ragged after their long war, riding towards Berlin in their strange assortment of vehicles, singing their fighting songs, drinking vodka, were like so many holiday-makers going on a great parade.

Before 8 o'clock we were well into Berlin with the forward elements of the Russian troops in the German capital. German dead lay on the sidewalks, in the front yards of the bomb-shattered homes of the Berlin suburbs. All streets were clogged with Russian tanks, guns, infantry in their shaggy fur hats and everywhere the horses of the Russian army ran loose about the streets.

But the Russians were happy—with almost indescribable wild joy, they were in Berlin. In this German capital lies their true revenge for Leningrad and Stalingrad, for Sevastopol and Moscow.

Not Polite to Nazis

And the Russians are having their revenge. All along the road into Berlin, the fields along the roadways are littered with the carts and belongings of the Germans who tried to escape from the capital for the Russians are not polite as the Americans are to Germans who clog the roads in the paths of American traffic. Americans wait for the Germans to pull off the road to let traffic pass, but the Russians drive over the German carts, push them off the road and upset them.

This command post is in what is left of a German home in the battered city of Berlin, almost leveled by American bombers. There are no electric lights and no running water. But the guards-major is a kind of host who can rise above such difficulties. The minute I arrived he had his Cossack orderly, a fierce Mongolian with a great scar on his left cheek, ready with a dish of water. After I had washed my face the guards-major produced some German face powder, a quarter-full bottle of German perfume and a cracked mirror.

I sat down to a candle-lit and flower-bedecked dinner table. The candelabra was upturned milk bottles and the flower vase was an old pickle jar. But the dinner was served with all the formality of a state function in Washington.

Enjoy Real Banquet

The "appetizer" was huge platefuls of something that tasted like spiced salmon. Then came huge platefuls of a strange dish that tasted like mutton cooked over charcoal, huge masses of mashed potatoes with meat oil poured over them, a huge Russian cheese, and for dessert, platefuls of Russian-made pastries. After each course there were toasts to "the late and great President Roosevelt," to Stalin, to President Truman, to Churchill, to "Capt. Andre Tooley," to "Capt. Veergeenee Erween," to the "Red army," to "The American army," to "Sarjaunt Wilson," and "to the American jeep."

As we drank our toasts the battle of Berlin raged only a few blocks away. As the artillery roared, the house shook and the candles fluttered. The candles are still fluttering as I write this story. The thought keeps coming into my mind that here is the greatest city-dump in the world, with the remains of bombed buildings all dumped in the same place with the dead.
